R. A. F. BOMBERS BLAST CITIES IN NORTH ITALY

By The Associated Press
The British war office acknowledged tonight that combustion defense forces have been from the burning Africa protectorate at British Somaliland.
While Fascists in Rome jubilantly claimed the British were driven out in a "little Dunkerque"—riv-alling the Allied retreat from Flanders.

All of Britain's isdom was prescribed as a landed area to combat landings by air or sea. Any authorities in Berlin indicated that the crucial week in the offensive against England.

Spokesmen in the German capital said the Nazi air force—with three days more of good weather —would strike decisive blows in an intensified assault on the blockaded kingdom.

Up to late afternoon, however, there was no sign of the heralded new aerial storm.

A German bomber was reported shot down in southwest England, and a lone German raider bombed
a house in a southeast coast town, killing two persons in the wreckage.

Of mass-scale attacks, such as marked the preceding week of aerial siege, there were none.
Nazi troops and aviators massed at French channel ports were described as waiting impatiently for the air force to prepare the way for a cross-channel land invasion, confident of swift victory with the end of the war by September.

The British Ministry of Home Security, in a communique announcing the establishment of a nation-wide defense zone, said that the area embraced England, Scotland and Wales and that the order enables any measures to be announced without delay which might become urgently necessary in case of an invasion.

Simultaneously, the German government notified Britain through the Swiss foreign office that Nazi parachute troops must be treated according to international law—not shot as spies when taken prisoner—or direct reprisals would be taken against English air force captives.

During the weekend, the British air force lashed at German-held air bases in France, Belgium and Holland.

Washington, Aug. 19.—(A.P.)— Germany has been advised in a formal note that the United States expects her refugee-laden army transport American Legion to complete its voyage home from Finland without "molestation" by Nazi armed forces.

As the transport with 900 Americans aboard neared waters which Nazis said were fraught with "extraordinary dangers," the State Department last night disclosed that a formal note had been sent to Berlin, stating that the United States "expects that the vessel will not suffer molestation by any action undertaken by the German armed forces."

The American note followed closely the announcement of the German government Saturday which disclaimed all responsibility for the ship's safety if it entered mine-infested waters near Britain, which are now specified as part of Germany's new "total blockade area."

The note reminded the German government that it had been advised in advance of the course the ship would follow, and that the German government had stated that the transport did not require a safe conduct, since it was a U. S.

censorship's nine-hour hold up of descriptions of Friday's air battles

The papers asserted that what

FIFTEEN KILLED IN PENN'A OVER WEEKEND

By The Associated Press
A pair of new shoes cost 20-year old Eugene Doran of Avoca, Pa., his life as weekend accidents killed at least 15 Pennsylvanians.
Doran plunged 60 feet to his death from the roof of an inn in the Pocono mountains near Scranton where he worked as a busboy.
He had climbed to the roof of the structure and lost his footing on the tile roof. Police blamed a pair of new shoes he was wearing.
In another tragedy, Levy Isaac Gelsinger, 43, Mr. Zion, Cumberland county, was electrocuted. He was standing in the pit of a well helping to lower a long pipe into it when the pipe touched high tension wires. Gelsinger's two sons, received shocks but were not injured seriously.
Five drownings took the heaviest toll of life.

Cornplanter Indians Decide Upon Details For Adoption Ceremonies

Governor Arthur H. James Will Become Blood-Brother of Chief Cornplanter Upon Being Received Into the Wolf Clan
EVERYBODY IS INVITED

Governor Arthur H. James will be adopted into the Wolf Clan of the Seneca Indians at the ceremonies on the Cornplanter grant next Saturday afternoon, it was announced today.
Dr. S. K. Stevens, Pennsylvania's state historian, points out that this is an especially interesting decision in view of the fact that adoption into this clan makes the governor a blood-brother of Chief Cornplanter himself.
Members of the Bear, Beaver and Blue Heron clans live on the Cornplanter grant. Each was naturally eager to have the governor as a member of his own clan, but a council of the leaders waived the claims of all in order to pay the governor the compliment of relating him as closely as possible to the great chieftain.

The Indians have decided on other details of the adoption ceremony, it was reported. Some 25 of the best dancers from the Allegany and Cattaraugus long houses will take part in the ceremonial dances performed in connection with the occasion.
The ritual to be used is one of the oldest known to eastern Indians. Its language is, in fact, so venerable that the ancient Mohawk in which it is expressed has lost its exact meaning for all but the oldest Indians.
No special invitations are necessary to attend the adoption ceremonial, it was pointed out, and no reservation of places can be made due to the nature of the place.

The ceremonial will take place on a platform to be erected on the lawn between the church and the school house so that all may see and hear. Traffic and parking are in charge of the Pennsylvania Motor Police. The large field between the school house and the cemetery has been set aside for parking, and all cars will be directed there so that the space in front of the scene of activities will be kept entirely clear for the accommodation of spectators.

WALTER P. CHRYSLER

New York, Aug. 19.—(A.P.)— Walter P. Chrysler, 65, a one-yesterday at his suburban Long high-paying positions on several occasions to take others which he thought held greater possibiyears, operating from his own 27-story skyscraper in mid-Manhattan and director of 25 plants he still referred to himself as "a machinist." He was the son of a locomotive engineer.

FORMER STATE OFFICIAL DIES

Pittsburgh, Aug. 19.—(A.P.)—
George E. Aller, 72, former attor-

The prominent Pittsburgh attorney, who began work at 12 deliv-

a descendant of a former governor and one of the commonwealth's early law makers.
He was appointed attorney general in December, 1920, by Governor William C. Sproul to fill a vacancy caused by the elevation to the State Supreme Court of Wil-

FORMAL NOTE IS SENT BERLIN ON REFUGEE SHIP

Germany Is Advised That Washington Expects Army Transport American Legion To Complete Its Voyage Home From Finland Without Molestation

NEARING DANGER ZONE

Washington, Aug. 19.—(P)—Germany has been advised in a formal note that the United States expects her refugee-laden army transport American Legion to complete its voyage home from Petsamo, Finland, without "molestation" by Nazi armed forces.

Ambassador to France, In Radio Speech, Bluntly Predicts German Attack On This Country If Great Britain Is Defeated

CONSCRIPTION IS PLEA

Philadelphia, Aug. 19.—(P)—U. S. Ambassador to France William C. Bullitt bluntly predicted a German attack on the United States if Great Britain is defeated as he urged the nation last night to adopt conscription and send aid to the British fleet.

His words, broadcast throughout the nation from historic Independence Square, carried the approval of the U. S. State Department.

"America is in danger," he said gravely.

"It is my conviction, drawn from my own experience and from the information in the hands of our government in Washington, that the United States is in as great peril today as was France a year ago. And I believe that unless we act now, decisively, to meet the threat we shall be too late."

At one point he asked the 4,000 persons in front of the State Department building to raise their right hands for conscription until 1941.

Differences In Senate and House Drafts Delay Final Action On the Guard Measure

Washington, Aug. 19.—(P)—Views on the National Guard bill. Despite Wendell L. Willkie's endorsement of "some form of selective service," anti-conscription forces were confident today that the Senate would vote to defer a draft until the new year instead of approving the Burke-Wadsworth bill proposal for immediate military training.

The confidence of the anti-conscription senators ran so high, that pressure was being brought to bear on Senator Maloney (D-Conn.) to make further modifications in his measure for the postponement of conscription until 1941.

Decision To Set Up a Permanent Board, Made Up Primarily of Four or Five Military Leaders From Each Country, Is Announced In Joint Statement Following Historic Meeting of Prime Minister and President

AGREEMENT UNIQUE IN AMERICAN ANNALS

Washington, Aug. 19.—(P)—The new defensive arrangement between the United States and Canada may point the way for a system of mutual assistance pacts throughout the western hemisphere.

The 21 American nations laid the basis for such a system among themselves at the recent Havana conference of foreign ministers and the joint defense board to be set up by the United States and Canada is expected in informed quarters to establish the form of agreements to be sought.

President Roosevelt initiated conversations with State, War and Navy department officials by telephone today to get suggestions for American members to the Canadian-American defense board, which he hopes will be set up by Thursday.

THOUSANDS HOMELESS IN SOUTHERN FLOODS

Roanoke Rapids, N. C., Aug. 19.—Floods left thousands homeless and at least two dead in northeastern North Carolina today, while fire and threat of disease added to the woes of the stricken area.

Whole sections were isolated. State and federal relief agencies were marshalled for duty.

At Jackson, 25 miles east of here, 400 flood refugees were advised by health officials to take vaccinations against typhoid. In nearby Weldon about 600 were homeless while the Roanoke river reached the all-time crest of 58 feet.

FORMER STATE OFFICIAL DIES

Pittsburgh, Aug. 19.—(P)—George E. Alter, 72, former attorney general of Pennsylvania and one-time Republican candidate for governor, died yesterday in a Pittsburgh hospital.

The prominent Pittsburgh attorney, who began work at 12 delivering groceries in his native community of nearby Springdale, was a descendant of a former governor and one of the commonwealth's early law makers.

He was appointed attorney general in December, 1920, by Governor William C. Sproul to fill a vacancy caused by the elevation to the State Supreme Court of William I. Schaffer, now chief justice.

Alter opposed Gifford Pinchot in 1922 for the GOP gubernatorial nomination and although he was defeated gained the prestige which often brought party leaders to him for consultation.

A member of the assembly during the 1909-11-13 sessions, he became speaker of the House of Representatives during his final term.

He was president of the State Bar Association in 1924-25 and was chairman of the membership committee of the American Law Institute since its founding in 1923.

COUNTY GROUPS REPRESENTED AT STATE COLLEGE

More than 1,500 rural boys and girls of Pennsylvania including several from Warren county, gathered last week on the campus of Pennsylvania State College to attend the 4-H Club Week, which has become an important annual event in the state 4-H Club program.

Ninety-three of these boys and girls registered Sunday, August 11, for leadership school sponsored by the State Bankers' Association. This is for the purpose of developing leaders among rural youth. Each county may send two delegates to Leadership School, the requirements being that they must be 16 years of age and must have been in club work two years. They must also be active leaders in their county and show promise of developing these leadership traits still further. This year Warren county had no boys or girls qualified for this honor.

Five Warren county girls in home economics clubs and two boys from agricultural clubs registered Wednesday for Club Week. They were: Eleanor Peters, Irene Rebecca Williams, Corvidon, Mercedes Anderson, Chandra Valley, Dorothy Michelson and June Reynolds. Cobham Hill John Nordin, Warren, and Norman Swart, Columbus.

In the style revue, Eleanor Peters won the gold medal on her Sunday dress and Dorothy Michelson won the silver award on her school dress. In the clothing judging contest, which took place Thursday, Miss Michelson and Miss Reynolds were winners of third awards in judging second year clothing work, while Miss Peters and Miss Anderson won blue ribbon awards in judging first year clothing club work.

The girls accompanied by Mrs. Helen Hicks, local leader of Starbuck, and Mrs. Thelma Prendercast, home economics representative of Warren, returned to their homes on Saturday. The boys were accompanied by O. C. Tritt, county agent.

The Bankers' Association of Warren contributed toward the expenses of this trip and the 4-H delegates were very grateful for this assistance.

WARREN COUNTY DIRECT RELIEF LOAD DECLINES

Direct relief rolls in Warren county during the week ending August 10 showed a net decrease of 15 cases according to information received today from Howard L. Russell, state secretary of public assistance. This brought the total number of cases down to 213, representing 722 persons.

Cost of public assistance in the county during the week was $1,170.53.

The decrease was the result of opening four cases and closing 19. In the state during the week there was a net decrease of 2,532 cases. This reduced the state-wide total to 166,439 cases, representing 456,069 persons. Cost of relief for the week was $1,144,438.92.

OLD HOME DAY AT FAGUNDAS IS WELL ATTENDED

Between two and three hundred residents and former residents of the Fagundas community in Forest county, including a number from this section, attended the annual Old Home Day held Saturday on the grounds of the church, erected in 1870.

Charles Morrow is president of the Old Home Day association and Miss Mabel Manross is secretary-treasurer.

Among the visitors were Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Barber, of Warren, who spent their early life in the Fagundas community; Mr. and Mrs. George Thompson, of Tidoute, who spent their early married life there; and Mrs. Harriet Morrison, of Tidoute, who lived in Fagundas 56 years ago.

Fagundas grew to a population of about 1,000 during the oil development there 70 years ago. First wells were drilled on the property of John Fagundas, for whom the settlement was named.

There were more than 6,000 carbonated drink bottling plants in the U. S. last year.

COUNTY POTATO GROWERS MAKE PLANS FOR TOUR

Plans have been completed for the first annual tour of Warren county potato growers, to be held on Thursday of this week, starting at 9 a. m. standard time, it was announced today by O. C. Tritt, county agent.

The tour will go from the county farm to Homer Gibson's potato field on Yankee Bush. From there the group will go by way of Chandra Valley and Sugar Grove to the John Johnson farm at Lottsville, where Chippewa and Russet potatoes and a Myers spraying outfit will be inspected. The next stop will be at Oscar Lauger's potato field north of Pittsfield, followed by a basket lunch somewhere near Pittsfield.

In the afternoon V. S. Peterson, agricultural engineer, of State College, will give a demonstration on proper adjustment and handling a digger to eliminate damage at digging time. R. B. Donaldson, marketing specialist, of State College, will give a grading demonstration.

The group will also dig and compare potatoes in the early variety demonstration, in which Humas, Chippewa, Katahdins and Nittany Cobblers are being grown. This program will be at the farm of Harry Long, president of the Pennsylvania Potato Growers Association.

Dr. O. D. Burke, plant pathologist of State College, will accompany the tour to answer any questions on diseases and spraying of potatoes.

Five Warren county girls in home economics clubs and two boys from agricultural clubs registered Wednesday for Club Week. They were: Eleanor Peters, Irvine; Rebecca Williams, Corydon; Mercedes Anderreg, Chancellors Valley; Dorothy Michelson and June Reynolds, Coham Hill; John Nordin, Warren, and Norman Swart, Columbus.

In the style revue, Eleanor Peters won the gold medal on her Sunday dress and Dorothy Michelson won the silver award on her school dress. In the clothing judging contest, which took place Thursday, Miss Michelson and Miss Reynolds were winners of third awards in judging second year clothing work, while Miss Peters and Miss Anderreg won blue ribbon awards in judging first year clothing club work.

The girls, accompanied by Mrs. Helen Hicks, local leader of Starbrick, and Mrs. Thelma Prendergast, home economics representative of Warren, returned to their homes on Saturday. The boys were accompanied by O. C. Tritt, county agent.

The Bankers' Association of Warren contributed toward the expenses of this trip and the 4-H delegates were very grateful for this assistance.

WARREN COUNTY DIRECT RELIEF LOAD DECLINES

Direct relief rolls in Warren county during the week ending August 10 showed a net decrease of 15 cases, according to information received today from Howard L. Russell, state secretary of public assistance. This brought the total number of cases down to 213, representing 722 persons.

Cost of public assistance in the county during the week was $1,170.53.

The decrease was the result of opening four cases and closing 19.

In the state during the week there was a net decrease of 2,532 cases. This reduced the state-wide total to 166,439 cases, representing 486,069 persons. Cost of relief for the week was $1,144,438.92.

OLD HOME DAY AT FAGUNDAS IS WELL ATTENDED

Between two and three hundred residents and former residents of the Fagundas community in Forest county, including a number from this section, attended the annual Old Home Day held Saturday on the grounds of the church, erected in 1870.

Charles Morrow is president of the Old Home Day association and Miss Mabel Manross is secretary-treasurer.

Among the visitors were Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Barber, of Warren, who spent their early life in the Fagundas community; Mr. and Mrs. George Thompson, of Tidoute, who spent their early married life there, and Mrs. Harriet Morrison, of Tidoute, who lived in Fagundas 56 years ago.

Fagundas grew to a population of about 1,000 during the oil development there 70 years ago. First wells were drilled on the property of John Fagundas, for whom the settlement was named.

There were more than 6,000 carbonated drink bottling plants in the U. S. last year.

POLITICAL FORUM

Articles appearing in this department are furnished by representatives of the respective parties in Warren county and are not intended to reflect the views or opinions of the publisher.

REPUBLICAN

One of the most important factors in the November election will be the effect of a new type of political organization. Wendell Willkie, the Republican party's presidential candidate, has summed up the idea behind it in three words—"We The People". Known in this state as the Associated Willkie Clubs of Pennsylvania, the organization is headed by William H. Harman, business executive.

Two months before the Republican national convention, the movement to nominate "dark horse" Wendell Willkie took the form of Willkie club established throughout the country. The Pennsylvania group was particularly active and effective, especially at the convention in Philadelphia.

At that time the purpose was to mobilize popular enthusiasm and show the delegates to the convention just who the people want as the Republican Standard Bearer. Petitions by the thousands poured into the Willkie headquarters and impressed the delegates who saw them. An overflow crowd gathered at Philadelphia's famous Academy of Music the night before the convention began. A steady stream of people flowed into the various street headquarters where information and literature was on hand, asking how they could help secure Willkie's nomination.

Operating independently, but coordinating its efforts with those of the Republican state committee so that they supplement each other thus preventing duplication of efforts. The Willkie clubs are working to assure the votes of independent Republicans and Democrats and to turn out the largest vote in Pennsylvania history by making sure that every eligible voter is registered.

"Our general purpose," Harman said at a recent conference, "is to perpetuate and stimulate the enthusiasm that made political history. Those men and women who have been Willkie rooters from the beginning, whose courage and convictions were largely responsible for Willkie's nomination, have been joined by many thousands in Pennsylvania who recognize in our nominee a leader in whom they can place full confidence. We ask them, in turn, to carry their enthusiasm into every corner of the state."

Appointments made thus far by Harman as chairman of the Willkie Clubs in their respective counties are: Lewis N. Lukens, who will head the Philadelphia county group assisted by Edgar W. Baird, Jr.; Lambert Turner, Allegheny county; Thomas Graham, Chester county; E. Wallace Chadwick, Delaware county; and Thornton Lewis, Bucks county.

Definite plans for a Willkie club in Warren county are expected to be announced in the near future.

DEMOCRAT

Wilkes-Barre, Aug. 19—Young Democrats from every one of Pennsylvania's 67 counties will begin arriving here in a flag bedecked city next Thursday for the biennial convention of the Young Democratic Clubs of Pennsylvania and the real opening of the Democratic state campaign.

While the convention will not open until Friday forenoon, many delegates are expected on Thursday for the registration, meetings of the regional directors and the committees on credentials, resolutions, rules and constitution and by-laws.

Two busy days have been arranged for the 2,000 delegates and alternates expected to attend on Friday and Saturday, the convention closing with a banquet and grand ball on Saturday evening. Among the banquet speakers are to be United States Senator Claude Pepper, of Florida; Senator Joseph M. Guffey, of Pennsylvania; State Chairman Meredith Meyers, of Lewistown; G. Harold Wagner, Democratic candidate for State Treasurer, and State Treasurer F. Clair Ross.

The first convention session is to be held Friday forenoon when an address of welcome will be given by Judge Thomas Farrell, of Luzerne county courts. The response is to be given by Miss Mary A. McInroy, of Middlebury Center, national committeewoman. At an evening session of the convention, addresses are to be given by National Committeeman David L. Lawrence, of Pittsburgh, and Auditor General Warren R. Roberts, of Bethlehem.

The evening session is to be followed by a reception and dance given by the Young Democratic Clubs of Luzerne county.

The convention delegates will get an early start on Saturday morning when breakfast sessions will be held in two groups, one for the men and the other for the women. Miss Sallie Durkin will present Mrs. Mary Ryan Bell as the toastmistress at the women's breakfast, and at the men's breakfast Stephen Farris is to be the chairman and Robert Bierly toastmaster. Prominent Democratic leaders will address each group.

When the convention convenes at 10 o'clock, in addition to business of the clubs, speakers will include Mayor Cornelius D. Scully, of Pittsburgh, and Senator Leo C. Mundy, of Luzerne county.

Saturday afternoon's session of the convention will include the election of officers, adoption of resolutions and other routine business.

LENNOX HI-BOY GAS AIRE-FLO UNIT IS SOUND

If you are interested in real furnace heating this year and for years to come better get in touch with the Warren Sheet Metal Shop, 12 Clark street, about their Lennox Hi-Boy Gas Aire-Flo unit.

The Lennox Gas Hi-Boy is a very practical type of gas fired winter air conditioning unit. It takes a very minimum of floor space with its filter and blower unit below and furnace and humidifier above. Easily removed doors inclose all controls. The highly polished enamel finish on the heavy cold rolled steel cabinet is so attractive that this unit can be set where customers see it in stores. In houses without basements it can be put in a small closet or in the "utility room" at the rear of the building.

Because the large and efficient blower forces rapid circulation the heating result is better than with the old type gravity furnace. Floors are warm, all parts of all rooms heat evenly, drafts are eliminated and the entire space is thoroughly ventilated with a pleasant flow of refreshing warm air that is cleaned and properly humidified.

The Hi-Boy model uses a standard J Series Lennox gas furnace with the tall cylindrical combustion chamber and doughnut radiator at the rear with air core in the center. Gas travels to the top of the combustion chamber and then into the doughnut radiator. Here vertical baffles force the gas downward before it returns to the outlet collar at the top. Long gas travel and abundant heating service bring the stack temperature down to the absolute minimum that is safe without condensation.

Number 16 gauge steel, welded throughout assures long life. Lennox uses a very special grade of steel in the furnace that reduces expansion and contraction noises done in gas furnaces of steel construction. The copper content in the steel resists corrosion.

Parts Described

1. Heavy steel furnace combustion chamber.
2. Doughnut type radiator for long gas travel.
3. Combination section connector and back draft diverter.
4. Over sized air circulating blower.
5. Blower motor.
6. Rubber "Vibration Dampeners" for the blower assembly.
7. Felt pads at the connection between the blower outlet and the cabinet.
8. Gas controls enclosed in cabinet.
9. Dustop Filters.
10. Removable legs.
11. High Capacity Humidifier.
12. Flood Level control.
13. Cold air inlet opening.
14. Warm air Outlet.

DUNLOP TIRES ASSURE UTMOST IN TIRE WEAR

Dunlop tires, sold in Warren by the Dunlop Tire & Rubber Corporation store, 315 Penna. Ave., W., offer you the most complete selection of automobile and truck tires in the world, the management declares.

The eleven types range all the way from the Dunlop Super "107" Gold Cup to the popular priced Dunlop Bison. Eleven tires—each the undisputed leader in its class.

And each designed to give you more in sheer dollar-for-dollar value than any other tires on the market today.

You may be the proud owner of a powerful, sleek new car and want to make it look its finest. Or you may want another year or two of service out of your present automobile without the risk of riding on smooth, worn tires. Either way, you'll find Dunlop has a tire just made for you.

There's a smart, white sidewall model that combines beauty with lowest-cost-per-mile; a super-grip traction for mud, sand and snow; a heavy duty tire built to stand up under back-breaking loads; and tires, quality designed for utmost economy. Whatever your tire problem, the answer is waiting for you in the Dunlop store in Warren.

Smooth tires are costly—why "dun out" the last miles of your tires and risk the hazard of an accident or the inconvenience and delay of "flats" when you can enjoy new, safe, silent, super-traction, long mileage Dunlops at present low prices. Less the actual value of your present tires.

Visit the Dunlop store at 315 Penna. Ave., W. in Warren now and look over these real tire values.

French Toast

- | | |
|----------------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| 1 egg or 2 yolks | 3 tablespoons |
| 1/2 cup milk | fat (bacon suggested) |
| 1/2 teaspoon granulated sugar | |
| 1/4 teaspoon salt | 1 tablespoon confectioner's sugar |
| 3 slices bread or leftover toast | |

Beat egg, milk and seasonings in a shallow dish—like a soup dish. Dip the bread quickly into this mixture and then place it in the fat, heated in a frying pan. Cook over moderate heat until well browned. Carefully turn and brown the other sides. Sprinkle with the confectioner's sugar and arrange, with edges overlapping —on a heated platter. Serve.

TIMES TOPICS

SPECIAL MEETING

An important meeting of the St. Paul's Lutheran church congregation will be held at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evening, when members will vote on the candidate for permanent pastor already unanimously approved by the board of deacons.

GETS CONTRACT

J. M. Benzinger, of Lakewood, who has just been awarded the contract for construction of a one-story addition to the Aero Supply Company plant at Corry, is well known in Warren, having resided here at one time. The new structure will be of brick on a steel frame and work will be started immediately on the 40,000 project.

RECEIVES DEGREE

Robert Lytle, of Warren, was among nine students who were awarded degrees on the closing day of the post-session of Edinboro State Teachers College, according to information received from the school. Both Lytle and Miss Betty Blair, of Warren, have been secured teaching positions by the placement bureau of the college, it is reported.

MEETING IN ERIE

At a dinner meeting to be held at the Lawrence Hotel in Erie next Monday evening at seven o'clock, nearly one hundred outstanding agricultural leaders in Erie, Warren, Venango and Crawford counties will meet for the purpose of discussing a plan for organizing a northwestern Pennsylvania regional marketing conference. The meeting is being sponsored by the Pennsylvania Chain Store Council.

HAS BIG CONTRACT

Clare J. Beyer, local contractor, is starting today on the construction of two large barns for the Ideal Dairy, near Kane. It was learned over the weekend. The barns were destroyed by fire a short time ago. According to Mr. Beyer, the barns are to be 40 by 126 and 26 by 110 feet in size. Interiors of the dairy barns are to be of glazed tile. The work is expected to take about six weeks.

GARLAND MEETING

At a recent meeting of the Garland Methodist church and cemetery association, J. D. Upton was elected president for the ensuing year and other officers were named as follows: Vice president, George Richard; secretary, Mrs. C. H. Briggs; treasurer, Richard Haller; trustees, Mrs. William McCullough, Harry Johnson, Seth Holmes and Merle Gibbons. A new roof for the church was authorized and plans started for a service commemorating the eightieth anniversary of the church. A report of the finances was presented by Richard Haller, treasurer.

INCREASE ADVERTISING

The amount of newspaper advertising use to promote Pillsbury's flours and cereal foods will be increased over 100 per cent during the current fiscal year, it was announced in Minneapolis today by Howard W. Files, vice president in charge of advertising and sales for Pillsbury Flour Mills Company. "We feel," said Mr. Files, "that with momentous events occurring so rapidly and frequently throughout the world, the average consumer is seeking constantly for the latest news, and naturally turns to newspapers with an intense interest in reading complete details. This makes newspapers, more than ever, an ideal medium for advertising, and accordingly we have rearranged our advertising program to provide for an increase of more than 100 per cent in the appropriation for newspaper advertising."

LET'S STAND ON OUR OWN LEGS.

(Written for NEA Service and Times-Mirror by Willis Thornton.)

Does Hitler plan to invade the United States?

You hear many conjectures about this. Reported conversations with Hitler or his leaders are set down, giving his allegedly clear intent. Elaborate deductions are drawn from his written or spoken words. He himself explicitly denies any such intention. Partisans of one view or the other argue the point at great length.

For the life of us, we can't see what difference it makes.

Does that sound crazy? we don't think it is. The job before us is to attain, as quickly as is humanly possible, a state of preparedness such that the United States and its policies do not depend on the intentions of a foreign ruler.

If Hitler does plan to invade the United States—well, there is only one answer: prepare, prepare, prepare!

If he doesn't, the answer is precisely the same. The mere existence of an aggressive military force of the kind he maintains and on which he has built the hegemony of Europe, means that a country like the United States must have such force at its disposal that it can make its own policy, no matter what policies are adopted abroad. If Hitler has no intention of interfering in American affairs, that's fine! American strength will help to fortify that excellent intention.

Europe cringed for seven years asking the breathless question: What will Hitler do?

Let us stop asking that question in the United States. Let us place ourselves in a position where we can say: "We don't care a plugged nickel WHAT Hitler does!"

What does it mean to be prepared? It means to develop such force that invasion will be but a slim temptation. It means to develop such force that national policy is not decided by what some far-off potentate dreams up, but by our own national interest and our own devotion to justice and right.

It is time to stop asking that fatal question, "What will Hitler do?" It is time to begin to make others ask with equal interest "What will the United States do?"

MUST PRESIDENTS BE POLITICIANS?

All proposals for amending the 150-year-old American Constitution are interesting. It is true that this fundamental law should not be changed lightly. But it is also true that it is a living document, and that it should march with the times. The founding fathers wanted that, or they would not have provided for its amendment.

Newest suggestion for amendment comes from Charles Francis Adams, scion of one of America's most distinguished families, and secretary of the navy under Hoover.

He proposes that a President be elected for six years, be ineligible further, and that on taking the oath both he and his cabinet renounce all party affiliation. Adams feels that the executive branch of the government would thereby become a "neutral" section of our three-branched government, and that many present ills would thereby disappear.

Like any serious proposal from so distinguished and responsible a source, this merits discussion, and discussion might center along these lines: first, is it desirable to detach the President from the responsible leadership of his party? and second, is it possible for any man, having risen to power by the support of a party organization, to honestly and completely detach himself from it? Or would such a vow be no better than a hypocritical fiction?

The first of a series of twelve maps tracing the war month-by-month through its first year is printed on this page today. It is suggested that readers clip them daily for future reference.

An interesting sight was furnished citizens early Sunday morning when seven planes from the Warren airport took off in formation to attend the Jamestown meet.

A Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Answering the mail orders: Mrs. K. L. T. Spokane, Wash.—The excerpts from the letter of your missionary friend in China are interesting, but grim and horrible. I am sorry I cannot pass them along to the readers of this column. I would be the last one to deny that inaccuracies occasionally creep into these paragraphs, but they would be far greater if I relaxed the rule against setting down reports which I have no way of checking.

Perhaps one reason editors and publishers in this country have "shown no disposition" to print horror stories either from China or Europe is that they remember too well the propaganda lessons of the World War. Personally, I think it a highly commendable caution. With so many vital things going on in the world today that may affect the whole future of America, it is no time to stir up a hornet's nest of hysteria.

B. T. Easton, Pa.—You are asking for personal advice, but I refer you back to a recent column and give you official advice.

Don't come to Washington looking for a job, unless you have connections which practically assure you the position. It's a wild guess, but perhaps about 8,000 persons have been employed here in the last three months.

The District of Columbia employment center tells me that there are more than 87,000 job applications on file and that more than 12,000 of these have been made or renewed in the last month.

Civil service and employment bureau officials have gone on the air in recent weeks in an effort to stem the tide of job-hunters that has rolled in as a result of the national defense drive.

There is no doubt that there are going to be hundreds, maybe thousands, of new jobs here, but the competition is already keen.

The point is that maybe in your own community, certainly in your own state, the defense program is opening up job possibilities.

If you are a skilled laborer, the chances are you'll have no trouble finding work.

Even if you aren't, explore the possibilities in or near your home town before you descend on Washington without political connections or a civil-service rating.

C. H. M., Birmingham, Ala.—No, the third-term issue has never been given a test at the polls.

As close as the voters ever got to it was in 1912, when Theodore Roosevelt, having been elected once after serving out McKinley's unexpired term, ran on the Bull Moose ticket. If he had been elected, he would have been in the White House about 1½ years (although not consecutively).

Grant tried to get nominated in 1880 for a third term (again not consecutively). He failed after he had deadlocked the convention through more than 30 ballots.

Political historians insist that, other than Washington, Coolidge is the only President until Roosevelt who could have been nominated for a third term.

Many will say flatly that had Coolidge chosen to run in 1928, his election would have been assured. That, of course, can't be proved, but some Democratic commentators are using it as proof that, with the T. Roosevelt showing in 1912, there were at least two times when the Republican party didn't worry about the third term tradition.

YEARS AGO IN WARREN

Interesting Items Taken From the Warren Evening Times

In 1920

Among the interesting relics which will be exhibited during Old Home Week will be the bell that hung in the belfry of the Old Mansion House about 1855. It stood on Pennsylvania avenue between Liberty and Hickory streets. It was finally destroyed by fire that swept this part of the town in 1869.

The members of the Conewango Fishing Club, who have been at Lake Orion, Ontario, Canada, for the past two weeks, arrived home last evening in a special Pullman car on the New York Central.

H. M. Rounds, a former Warren county man, arrived here this morning in his Dodge Roadster from Tacoma, Wash., having traveled 3,277 miles to attend the Old Home Week Celebration.

The employees of the Quaker Machine Shop have organized a baseball team and game will be arranged with William Allen Phillips street.

Mrs. Jean J. Stinson, who has been notified of her appointment as postmistress at North Warren to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of the present holder of the office.

The Jazz-bo-Boys will give another of their popular dances Sunday evening at the K. of B. hall.

Frank McKoon, in the county jail awaiting trial on a charge of murdering Mrs. Mabel Coan Lindquist near Sugar Grove last Memorial Day, succeeded in his second attempt to take his own life this morning in a horrible and most gruesome manner, when he built a fire of paper and other waste in his cell and stood over it long enough to be almost roasted alive.

Most county officials, with representatives of the Warren County Good Roads Association, the County Motor Club and the Chamber of Commerce, are expected to attend a conference to be held at the Scott overhead Thursday morning when a representative of the Public Service Commission will be present to discuss the elevation and ballast at the structure.

This evening there should be a big crowd on hand to see the Mo-hawk Tires and Barreite Cleaners fight it out in a Sunset League game on Russell field. If the Barreites can take this game, they have things pretty well under control for the second half.

H. B. Bowersox is sending announcements that the annual picnic of the Warren Council, United Commercial Travelers, will be held Saturday at the Owing Club.

Cigaretts are taxed by 26 states.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Italian Eagle Battles British Lion in Africa

THE symbolic battle of eagle and lion, pictured on the Italian East Africa stamp above, achieves reality in the clash of Italian and British troops in African colonies.

Most of the fighting has occurred in the Libyan desert, and along the frontiers of Sudan, Kenya and British Somaliland. All of these colonies border on Italian East Africa, formerly Ethiopia, conquered by Italy in 1936.

Another lion—former Emperor Haile Selassie, Lion of Judah—has returned to his kingdom to rally loyal Ethiopians to fight the eagle. He fled his kingdom when the capital, Addis Ababa, was captured by the Italian armies. Since that time he has been in exile in Britain and in Switzerland.

For the life of us, we can't see what difference it makes.

Does that sound crazy? we don't think it is. The job before us is to attain, as quickly as is humanly possible, a state of preparedness such that the United States and its policies do not depend on the intentions of a foreign ruler.

If Hitler does plan to invade the United States—well, there is only one answer: prepare, prepare, prepare!

If he doesn't, the answer is precisely the same. The mere existence of an aggressive military force of the kind he maintains and on which he has built the hegemony of Europe, means that a country like the United States must have such force at its disposal that it can make its own policy, no matter what policies are adopted abroad. If Hitler has no intention of interfering in American affairs, that's fine! American strength will help to fortify that excellent intention.

Europe cringed for seven years asking the breathless question: What will Hitler do?

Let us stop asking that question in the United States. Let us place ourselves in a position where we can say: "We don't care a plugged nickel WHAT Hitler does!"

What does it mean to be prepared? It means to develop such force that invasion will be but a slim temptation. It means to develop such force that national policy is not decided by what some far-off potentate dreams up, but by our own national interest and our own devotion to justice and right.

It is time to stop asking that fatal question, "What will Hitler do?" It is time to begin to make others ask with equal interest "What will the United States do?"

MUST PRESIDENTS BE POLITICIANS?

All proposals for amending the 150-year-old American Constitution are interesting. It is true that this fundamental law should not be changed lightly. But it is also true that it is a living document, and that it should march with the times. The founding fathers wanted that, or they would not have provided for its amendment.

Newest suggestion for amendment comes from Charles Francis Adams, scion of one of America's most distinguished families, and secretary of the navy under Hoover.

He proposes that a President be elected for six years, be ineligible further, and that on taking the oath both he and his cabinet renounce all party affiliation. Adams feels that the executive branch of the government would thereby become a "neutral" section of our three-branched government, and that many present ills would thereby disappear.

Like any serious proposal from so distinguished and responsible a source, this merits discussion, and discussion might center along these lines: first, is it desirable to detach the President from the responsible leadership of his party? and second, is it possible for any man, having risen to power by the support of a party organization, to honestly and completely detach himself from it? Or would such a vow be no better than a hypocritical fiction?

The first of a series of twelve maps tracing the war month-by-month through its first year is printed on this page today. It is suggested that readers clip them daily for future reference.

An interesting sight was furnished citizens early Sunday morning when seven planes from the Warren airport took off in formation to attend the Jamestown meet.

A Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Answering the mail orders:

Mrs. K. L. T., Spokane, Wash.—The missionary friend in China are interesting, but grim and horrible. I am sorry I cannot pass them along to the readers of this column. I would be the last one to deny that inaccuracies occasionally creep into these paragraphs, but they would be far greater if I relaxed the rule against setting down reports which I have no way of checking.

Perhaps one reason editors and publishers in this country have "shown no disposition" to print horror stories either from China or Europe is that they remember too well the propaganda lessons of the World War. Personally, I think it a highly commendable caution. With so many vital things going on in the world today that may affect the whole future of America, it is no time to stir up a hornet's nest of hysteria.

B. T., Easton, Pa.—You are asking for personal advice, but I refer you back to a recent column and give you official advice.

Don't come to Washington looking for a job, unless you have connections which practically assure you the position. It's a wild guess, but perhaps about 8,000 persons have been employed here in the last three months.

The District of Columbia employment center tells me that there are more than 87,000 job applications on file and that more than 17,000 of these have been made or renewed in the last month.

Civil service and employment bureau officials have gone on the air in recent weeks in an effort to stem the tide of job-hunters that has rolled in as a result of the national defense drive. There is no doubt that there are going to be hundreds, maybe thousands, of new jobs here, but the competition is already keen. The point is that maybe in your own community, certainly in your own state, the defense program is opening up job possibilities.

If you are a skilled laborer, the chances are you'll have no trouble finding work.

Even if you aren't, explore the possibilities in or near your home town before you descend on Washington without political connections or a civil-service rating.

G. H. M., Birmingham, Ala.—No, the third-term issue has never been given a test at the polls. As close as the voters ever got to it was in 1912, when Theodore Roosevelt, having been elected once after serving out McKinley's unexpired term, ran on the Bull Moose ticket. If he had been elected, he would have been in the White House about 11½ years (although not consecutively).

Grant tried to get nominated in 1880 for a third term (again not consecutively). He failed after he had deadlocked the convention through more than 30 ballots.

Political historians insist that, other than Washington, Coolidge is the only President until Roosevelt who could have been nominated for a third term.

Many will say flatly that had Coolidge chosen to run in 1928, his election would have been assured. That, of course, can't be proved, but some Democratic commentators are using it as proof that, with the T. Roosevelt showing in 1912, there were at least two times when the Republican party didn't worry about the third term tradition.

YEARS AGO IN WARREN

In 1920

Among the interesting relics which will be exhibited during Old Home Week will be the bell that hung in the belfry of the Old Mansion House about 1856. It stood on Pennsylvania avenue between Liberty and Hickory streets. It was finally destroyed by fire that swept this part of the town in 1869.

The members of the Conewago Fishing Club, who have been at Lake Talon, Ontario, Canada, for the past two weeks, arrived home last evening in a special Pullman car on the New York Central.

H. M. Rounds, a former Warren county man, arrived here this morning in his Dodge Roadster from Tacoma, Wash., having traveled 3,277 miles to attend the Old Home Week Celebration.

The employees of the Gisholt Machine Shop have organized a baseball team and games can be arranged with William Allen, Phillips street.

Mrs. Jean J. Sturdevant has been notified of her appointment as postmistress at North Warren to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of the present holder of the office.

The Jazz-bo-Boys will give another of their popular dances Saturday evening at the K. of P. hall.

Frank McKoon, in the county jail awaiting trial on a charge of murdering Mrs. Mabel Coan Lindquist near Sugar Grove last Memorial Day, succeeded in his second attempt to take his own life this morning in a horrible and most gruesome manner, when he built a fire of paper and other waste in his cell and stood over it long enough to be almost roasted alive.

Most county officials, with representatives of the Warren County Good Roads Association, the County Motor Club and the Chamber of Commerce are expected to attend a conference to be held at the Scott overhead Thursday morning when a representative of the Public Service Commission will be present to discuss the elevation and ballast at the structure.

This evening there should be a big crowd on hand to see the Mohawk Tires and Barretto Cleaners fight it out in a Sunset League game on Russell Field. If the Barrettes can take this game, they have things pretty well under control for the second half.

H. B. Bowersox is sending an picnic of the Warren Council, United Commercial Travelers, will be held Saturday at the Outing Club.

Cigarettes are taxed by 26 states.

September: Prelude in Poland

Sept. 1, 1939, was the day the world had long dreaded. Adolf Hitler sent his war machine across the Polish frontiers, German bombers blasted unprotected cities. Before month's end it was all over; Poland had succumbed to the most devastating attack in military history. Britain and France declared war; the British liner Athenia was sunk with loss of 125 lives.

MEMORY OF THE moon

by Jeanne Bowman

YESTERDAY: Taylor, the manager of El Cabrillo Rancho, has offered $50,000 for the ranch. Constance Cabrillo's family is eager to sell but she knows the money will soon vanish. She decides to go to California and investigate.

Chapter Three Fuller's Junction

CONSTANCE Cabrillo stopped twice enroute to the airport, once to telephone and learn that the plane was leaving at seven and to make a reservation on it, the second time at her office where she spent a precious half-hour closeted with the head of the realty firm.

That man wiped his brow as she whisked away.

"I hope she never tries to sell me the Empire State Building," he wheezed to his secretary. "I'd buy it."

"Shall I lie to the family for you?" asked the secretary sympathetically.

"If you will," he replied, wearily, and listened to the young woman inform the Cabrillos that he had sent Miss Constance on an important mission; that he did not give out information on prospective purchases of out-of-town ter-

There was a sudden lifting of the fog.

ritory, consequently he could not tell them where she was; that she kept an overnight bag at the office, packed for such trips.

Constance garaged her car, signaled a cab and drove to the airport, smiling a little at the thought of a Cabrillo taking a trans-continental trip with no more luggage than she carried.

She thought of the Cabrillos for the next sixteen hours while the ship roared through the sky; under stars, under sunshine, across plains misty with the first fall rains, over mountains blazing white with their new mantles of snow.

As the ship circled in over San Francisco Bay, she thought of John with a guilty start and wondered how long he had waited for her.

She felt as lost and alone as the plane looked in that sea of fog, and later, breakfasting at the airport, wondered if she had done wrong; if it hadn't been the Cabrillo in her that had caused her to throw her hard-earned commission away on this trip when she might have paid bills with it.

By noon, boarding a local train which would steam its way to the town nearest the ranch, she was trying to comfort herself with the thought that her father wouldn't have left that provision in the will if he hadn't expected her to act as she was acting.

And then she relaxed. Outside the window were tawny hills growing purple in the distance; pale golden valleys dotted with grazing herds; fruit orchards, crooked limbs holding tattered yellow leaves.

Hours passed and Constance dozed to sit up, alert, at the brakeman's call of "Fuller's Junction!"

'Taylor's Ranch'

THE train was in a clearing now, the hills falling away to give the river clearance to the sea, and when it stopped, Constance looked out from the vestibule to find fog rolling in, in vast, wet billows which settled down, causing the few buildings of the junction into nonentity.

She felt her spirit crushed with the foreboding outlook and when the train pulled out she felt it was her last link with civilization.

"Expectin' to be met?"

Constance wheeled to find a few loafers cying her way curiously, a station master standing just behind her awaiting an answer to his question.

Corydon

Corydon, Aug. 16 Mrs. N. I. Caldwell has been called to Buffalo to stay indefinitely at the Mead home.

Jack Henderson has returned to his home in Pittsburgh after spending a few days here. Mrs. Henderson is staying to spend a vacation with relatives.

YESTERDAY: Without telling her family, Constance flies to California. Then she takes a train to Fuller's Junction and sets out for the ranch in a hired car.

Chapter Four The Vaquero

CONSTANCE, swung onto the most branching right.

At least she was home. She was on El Cabrillo property, free of mortgage, taxes and all encumbrances . . . save for Taylor.

If the fog would lift she would be able to look up a two-mile avenue of Eucalyptus and cedar to the rambling ranch house, with the smaller servants' quarters clustering nearby.

But the fog didn't lift and the road seemed much too long and there were no trees visible along the road.

Maybe Taylor had seen fit to cut them down.

Oh well, she liked fog, fog scented with fragrant sweet grass, eucalyptus, bay and salt of the sea. As a child she had walked through such a mist as this, her hand safe in her father's. They'd made a game of it. Each brush, shrub, or pile of rock was a fairy o'-a-gnom.

She forgot the fairies abruptly as she struck a chuck-hole. The road was im possible. Surely Taylor could have kept it in better condition.

It grew narrower, more deeply rutted, and the car labored as the incline grew steeper. A hill jumped out of the fog and Constance dodged. "Idiot!" she roared, and then, looking at her watch: "I wonder if I've taken the wrong road. I can't turn around, I'm stuck."

Out of the heavy mist loomed a horse and rider. For a moment Constance thought they were going to lope straight into her car.

She turned on the headlights and the horse stood up and waved its forefeet at her. She blinked the lights and he presented a waving tail and saluted the hill with his feet.

At least this gave her a glimpse of the rider: a man who sat the saddle like a centaur.

Constance breathed deeply with pleasure. "A vaquero," she murmured. "A real vaquero cowboy."

The horse turned again to the lights, the snorting his displeasure, and above his snort the vaquero roared, "Turn those damned lights off!"

Constance complied. She also turned off the motor and watched the horse come back to earth, the man still in the saddle.

"There is a sign at the highway," offered the rider icily, as the horse minced daintily around to the side of the car, which states this is a private road."

Constance pushed the curtain aside and leaned out. "Imagine anyone wanting to keep this road private," she said.

"The vaquero stared at her in astonishment. "Señorita, I . . . I beg the pardon."

In one swift, graceful movement he had dismounted, swept a sombrero from his head and led his mount to the car.

Constance blinked rapidly. It must be the fog. No man could look like this one, no modern man. He was a copy of the old prints her father had shown her, one of the tall, dark Basques who had come to the new country with the first Don Cabrillo.

He was tall; tall and dark of skin, an amber darkness of layers of sunburned skin.

And where but in Spain could one find such smouldering black eyes, such long, jetty lashes. And there was a wave in his hair, a slight one, probably incorrigible, for it looked as though everything but honey had been used to "atten it."

There was nothing incorrigible about his moustache. It was small and very thin and very black. That was probably what made his smile seem so dazzling.

Golden Land

"YOU are lost, Señorita?"

The magic of the Señorita completed Constance's capitulation. She was home. She was a Cabrillo, one of the old Cabrillos who had ruled thousands of acres, thousands of cattle, and dozens of vaqueros, once upon a time.

But would a Castilian Cabrillo have been as stirred by a cowboy as she was stirred? Could this exciting pulse-accelerating response be a strain of the shanty-irish cropping out?

"Perhaps I am lost," she conceded. "I thought I was on El Camino Real."

"But not," countered the man. "El Camino Real is many miles beyond this road. It would not be wise to try to find it. Fog is bad, and fog and twilight is what we, in this country, call the Devil's brew."

"Then what shall I do?" begged Constance, looking hopelessly at the dim landscape.

"If you will follow this road a few miles, you will come to a Cabrillo out-rider's post. Maria can put you up for the night, and tomorrow I will guide you to the home ranch."

After one backward glance, Constance decided this was the only solution.

He said he would ride on ahead, and promised she would be out of the fog when she reached the summit. Then, with a quick movement, he had mounted and was away.

Constance smiled as she followed and faintly all of Buffalo.

The annual Whaley reunion was held Sunday at the home of Mrs. Emma Whaley. A delightful dinner was served at 1 o'clock. Relatives from Oil City, Scranton, Kinzua, Warren, Olean and Quaker Hill were present.

Miss Irene Bortoff has returned to her work in Bradford after spending a week's vacation here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bortoff.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hammond and children spent Saturday in Kinzua.

Mrs. Blanche Kennedy returned last week from an eight months stay in California.

Mr. and Mrs. George Crooks of New York City are visiting at the home of Mr. Crook's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Crooks.

(Turn To Page Ten)

Few Pennsylvania Residents Are Aware Of Its Indian Population

(First of five articles concerning the Complanter Indians and their founder, written in connection with the scheduled adoption of Governor James in to the tribe next Saturday.)

There are probably few Pennsylvanians who know that the state possesses an Indian population, and yet the last remnants of its aboriginal red men are to be found isolated on a few hundred acres of land in Warren county, near the headwaters of the Allegheny river. It is true, that less than half a hundred Complanters, descendants of the great chieftain and friend of the white man, Chief Complanter, are now residing within the limits of the land presented to their forebears by the commonwealth. Probably five hundred others, however, have some claim to this land and would perhaps still be occupying it had greater opportunities for self improvement been available. The tiny settlement has a church and a school and this is about all that the commonwealth has ever done to improve the lot of those who were once the first Pennsylvanians.

One look ahead and Constance braked the car and turned off the motor. Before her lay half of the remaining Cabrillo acres, mellowed in the last rays of the sun. There were the hills of tan velvet rolling away to plum-colored mountains standing in a serrated line against the blue-gray sky.

Sell this Never!

Yet no wonder Taylor wanted it for his own. And no wonder the vaquero looked as though he had sprung from such a golden land.

He was riding down the sharp drop to where a wide adobe house squatted in the sea of the hill, dwarfed by the giant Eucalyptus trees which towered above it.

He stopped his horse before the adobe, and a woman, built like the house, squeezed through the door.

Constance laughed as she watched the pantomime.

The woman waved a red apron excitedly. She threw it up over her head and back down. Then she raised her voice and the words came to Constance through the thin air.

"Josefa . . . Jo see fa! Marietta! Juan! Carlos! Muy pronto!"

Children came scrambling muy pronto from every direction, and Maria, after a hurried consultation, waved them on with her apron. One to the woodpile, one to the chicken yard, one to the little garden beyond the grove, and the girl into the house.

"Maria," murmured Constance, "is preparing for a guest. What will she think when she learns that her guest is a Cabrillo?"

Miss Michael

SUDDENLY Michael Mahoney's great-granddaughter sat erect, her eyes narrowed. The vaquero had wheeled away from the house to lope out to the stables where two riders had just come in from the hills.

Tonight, after the evening meal, these men would sit around and talk. If they didn't know her as a Cabrillo, she could ask leading questions and learn all she needed to know about the ranch before Taylor knew that she was within a thousand miles of the place.

"What name shall I use?" she wondered, then nodded. They had called her a throwback. Very well, she would take her great-grandfather's first name. She would be Miss Michael for one night.

A swift shadow fell over the hills, and Constance shivered in the chill November evening. She started her engine, to make a slow descent, brakes, gears and her own young muscles straining to hold the car back from its impetuous dash to the valley.

As she pulled up before the adobe Maria appeared, now clothed in black, hair pulled into a neat bun, round face shining with recent soaping and broad welcome, a white apron replacing the red one.

She burst into a flow of Spanish which left the descendant of the Dons frowning in a concentrated effort to follow her words.

"Welcome," concluded Maria, and Constance repeated, Maria, it appeared, could speak English after a fashion, and also after a fashion, could understand her.

"Si," she had one extra room, but not for money, for a guest.

And, "Si," she could arrange such humble food as would pacify the hunger of the Señorita.

Constance followed as she backed into the long main room of the house; a room which might have looked barren with its white-washed walls and heavy furniture and rock fireplace, had not the rafters and windows been festooned with rows of green and scarlet peppers, yellow gourds and strings of pearly white garlic.

And for the little Shrine set in an alcove off the inner door, a small taper glowing before it.

Maria backed towards the Shrine. The Señorita stood aside, waiting, and Constance, catching back in her memory, remembered a tradition of the Cabrillos.

She had completed a hazardous journey. She must give thanks for its safe termination: for the welcome of friends and for food and shelter.

Obediently she knelt and when she arose found Maria, a fatuous smile on her face, nodding to someone across the room.

Constance turned and her heart tightened, then quickened its beat. The vaquero had come in. Did she imagine disappointment and vague pain in the expression in his eyes, or was it the shadow of the fast falling twilight?

Confucius testily introduced him. "Señorita Michael, thees is Pedro," she offered, then raised her voice, "Marietta!"

Marietta, a pocket edition of her mother, came scurrying in, and Constance, aware only of the slight bow the vaquero had given at the introduction, followed the child out of the room and down a tiny hall to the room she would occupy.

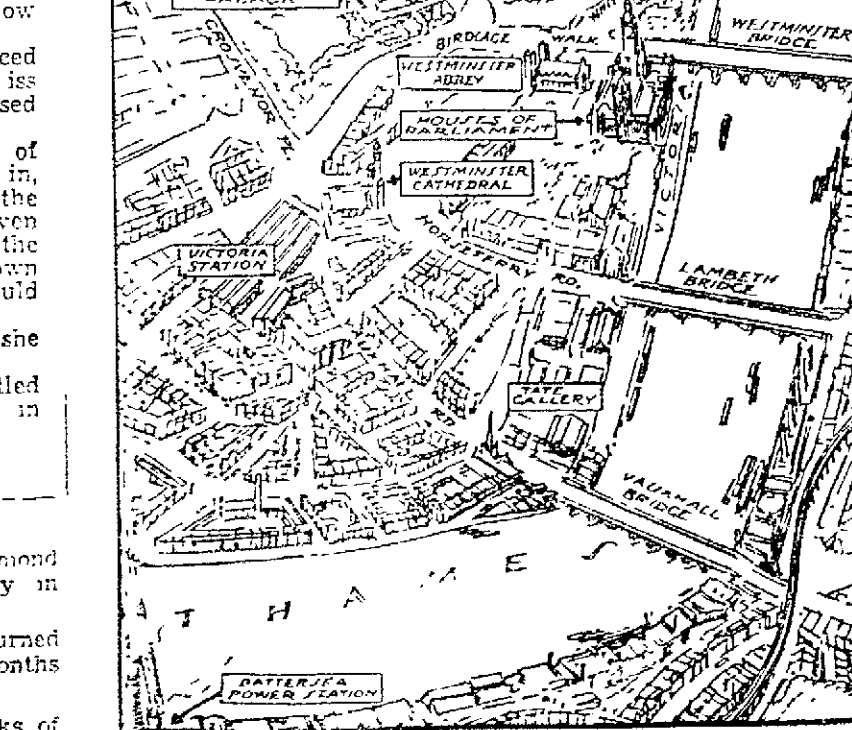

"Is Pedro your uncle?" she asked of Marietta.

Marietta gave her a startled glance, then hid her face in shocked denial.

MEMORY OF THE MOON

by Jeanne Bowman

YESTERDAY: Taylor, the manager of El Cabrillo Rancho, has offered $50,000 for the ranch. Constance, Cabrillo's family, is eager to sell but she knows the money will soon vanish. She decides to go to California and investigate.

Chapter Three

Fuller's Junction

CONSTANCE Cabrillo stopped twice enroute to the airport, once to telephone and learn that the plane was leaving at seven and to make a reservation on it, the second time at her office where she spent a precious half-hour closeted with the head of the realty firm.

That man wiped his brow as she whisked away.

"I hope she never tries to sell me the Empire State Building," he wheezed to his secretary. "I'd buy it."

"Shall I lie to the family for you?" asked the secretary sympathetically.

"If you will," he replied, wearily, and listened to the young woman inform the Cabrillos that he had sent Miss Constance on an important mission; that he did not give out information on prospective purchases of out-of-town ter-

"No," she admitted, "but I had hoped to hire a cab which would take me to El Cabrillo Rancho." "El Cabrillo," mused the man. "Oh, you mean Taylor's ranch."

Constance immediately hated Taylor. So the countryside already thought of her home as belonging to the manager, did they?

"Well, now," the station master continued. "Can't say as there's a cab within a hundred miles, but Sam!" he called, and one of the loafers separated himself from a milk can. Is Min renting out Tim's car these days?

"Shore is," drawled Sam. "Two bits an hour, less you like a flat rate, and promise of pay for repairs. Min ain't aimin' to pay no more on that bus. It like to took all Tim's insurance to fix it so it'd run agin, after Tim killed himself in it."

Constance swallowed, but it was Min's Tim's car or the next train back, and where would she wait for the train? There wasn't a hotel in sight. She could see the entire town from where she stood, and only a barbershop and post-office, a general store and undertaking parlor and a garage were visible.

Sam offered to take her to Min and grew loquacious on the way. "Bet you're a-goin' out to see Peter," he offered. "He shore has a way with girls. Been back from college goin' on six years, but

ritory, consequently he could not tell them where she was; that she kept an overnight bag at the office, packed for such trips.

Constance garaged her car, signaled a cab and drove to the airport, smiling a little at the thought of a Cabrillo taking a trans-continental trip with no more luggage than she carried.

She thought of the Cabrillos for the next sixteen hours while the big ship roared through the sky: under stars, under sunshine, across plains misty with the first fall rains, over mountains blazing white with their new mantles of snow.

As the ship circled in over San Francisco Bay, she thought of John with a guilty start, and wondered how long he had waited for her.

She felt as lost and alone as the plane looked in that sea of fog, and later, breakfasting at the airport, wondered if she had done wrong; if it hadn't been the Cabrillo in her that had caused her to throw her hard-earned commission away on this trip when she might have paid bills with it.

By noon, boarding a local train which would steam its way to the town nearest the ranch, she was trying to comfort herself with the thought that her father wouldn't have left that provision in the will if he hadn't expected her to act as she was acting.

And then she relaxed. Outside the window were tawny hills growing purple in the distance; gentle golden valleys dotted with grazing herds; fruit orchards, crooked limbs holding tattered yellow leaves.

Hours passed and Constance dozed to sit up, alert, at the brakeman's call of "Fuller's Junction!"

Taylor's Ranch

THE train was in a clearing now, the hills falling away to give the river clearance to the sea, and when it stopped, Constance looked out from the vestibule to find fog rolling in, in vast, wet billows which settled down, crushing the few buildings of the junction into nonentity.

Constance wheeled to find a few loaves lying on the ground, a station master standing just behind her awaiting an answer to his question.

"No," she admitted, "but I had hoped to hire a cab which would take me to El Cabrillo Rancho." "El Cabrillo," mused the man. "Oh, you mean Taylor's ranch."

Chapter Four

The Vaquero

CONSTANCE, swung onto the road branching right.

At least she was home. She was on El Cabrillo property, free of mortgage, taxes and all encumbrances . . . save for Taylor.

If the fog would lift she would be able to look up a two-mile avenue of Eucalyptus and cedar to the rambling ranch house, with the smaller servants' quarters clustering nearby.

But the fog didn't lift and the road seemed much too long and there were no trees visible along the road.

Maybe Taylor had seen fit to cut them down.

Oh well, she liked fog, fog scented with fragrant sweet grass, eucalyptus, bay and salt of the sea. As a child she had walked through such a mist as this, her hand safe in her father's. They'd made a game of it. Each brush, shrub, or pile of rock was a fairy or a gnom.

She forgot the fairies abruptly the car struck a chuck-hole. The road was im possible. Surely Taylor could have kept it in better condition.

It grew narrower, more deeply rutted, and the car labored as the incline grew steeper. A hill jumped out of the fog and Constance dodged. "Idiot!" she to ed, and then, looking at her watch: "I wonder if I've taken the wrong road. I can't turn around, I—"

Out of the heavy mist loomed a horse and rider. For a moment Constance thought they were going to lope straight into her car.

She turned on the headlights and the horse stood up and waved its forefeet at her. She blinked the lights and he presented a waving tail and saluted the hill with his feet.

At least this gave her a glimpse of the rider: a man who sat the saddle like a centaur.

Constance breathed deeply with pleasure. "A vaquero," she murmured. "A real Cabrillo cowboy." The horse turned again to the lights, snorting his displeasure, and above his snort the vaquero roared. "Turn those damned lights off!"

Constance complied. She also turned off the motor and watched the horse come back to earth, the man still in the saddle.

"There is a sign at the highway," offered the rider icily, as the horse minced daintily around to the side of the car, which states this is a private road."

Constance pushed the curtain aside and leaned out. "Imagine anyone wanting to keep this road private," she said.

"I—" The vaquero stared at her in astonishment. "Señorita, I . . . I beg the pardon."

In one swift, graceful movement he had dismounted, swept a sombrero from his head and led his mount to the car.

Constance blinked rapidly. It must be the fog. No man could look like this one, no modern man. He was a copy of the old prints her father had shown her, one of the tall dark Basques who had come to the new country with the first Don Cabrillo.

He was tall; tall and dark of skin, an amber darkness of layers of sunburned skin. And where but in Spain could one find such smouldering black eyes, such long, jetty lashes. And there was a wave in his hair, a slight one, probably incorrigible, for it looked as though everything but honey had been used to tatten it.

There was nothing incorrigible about his moustache. It was small and very thin and very black. That was probably what made his smile seem so dazzling.

Golden Land

"YOU are lost, Señorita?" The magic of the Señorita completed Constance's capitulation. She was home. She was a Cabrillo, one of the old Cabrillos who had ruled thousands of acres, thousands of cattle; and dozens of vaqueros like this one.

But would a Castilian Cabrillo have been as stirred by a cowboy as she was stirred? Could this exciting pulse-accelerating response be a strain of the shanty-Irish cropping out?

"Perhaps I am lost," she conceded. "I thought I was on El Camino Real."

"But no!" countered the man. "El Camino Real is many miles beyond this road. It would not be wise to try to find it. Fog is bad, and fog and twilight is what we, in this country, call the Devil's brew."

"Then what shall I do?" begged Constance, looking hopelessly at the dim landscape.

"If you will follow this road a few miles, you will come to a Cabrillo out-rider's post. Maria can put you up for the night, and tomorrow I will guide you to the home ranch."

After one backward glance, Constance decided this was the only solution.

He said he would ride on ahead, and promised she would be out of the fog when she reached the summit. Then, with a quick movement, he had mounted and was away.

Constance smiled as she followed, smiled in spite of the mist which protested more audibly with each steep mile. The fog ahead was a curled sea of gray, and then it thinned to reveal a stand of redwood, next turned a dull orange, and, as she reached the summit, disappeared to let her ride out into clear, yellow light.

One look ahead and Constance braked the car and turned off the motor. Before her lay half of the remaining Cabrillo acres, sun-lowed in the last rays of the sun. There were the hills of tan velvet rolling away to plum-colored mountains standing in a serrated line against the blue-gray sky.

Sell this? Never! Yet no wonder Taylor wanted it for his own. And no wonder the vaquero looked as though he had sprung from such a golden land.

He was riding down the sharp drop to where a wide adobe house squatted in the lee of the hill, dwarfed by the giant Eucalyptus trees which towered above it.

He stopped his horse before the adobe, and a woman, built like the house, squeezed through the door.

Constance laughed as she watched the pantomime.

"Josefa . . . Jo see fa! Marietta! Juan! Carlos! Muy pronto!"

Children came scrambling muy pronto from every direction. Maria, after a hurried consultation, waved them on with her apron. One to the woodpile, one to the chicken yard, one to the little garden beyond the grove, and the girl into the house.

"Maria," murmured Constance, "is preparing for a guest. What will she think when she learns that her guest is a Cabrillo?"

Miss Michael

SUDDENLY Michael Mahoney's great-granddaughter sat erect, her eyes narrowed. The vaquero had wheeled away from the house to lope out to the stables where two riders had just come in from the hills.

Confusedly Maria introduced him—"Señorita Michael, thees iss Pedro," she offered, then raised her voice, "Marietta!"

Marietta, a pocket edition of her mother, came scurrying in, and Constance, aware only of the sight of the vaquero had given at the introduction, followed the child out of the room and down a tiny hall to the room she would occupy.

"Is Pedro your uncle?" she asked of Marietta.

Marietta gave her a startled glance, then hid her face in shocked denial.

Few Pennsylvania Residents Are Aware Of Its Indian Population

(First of five articles concerning the Complanter Indians and their founder, written in connection with the scheduled adoption of Governor James in to the tribe next Saturday.)

There are probably few Pennsylvanians who know that the state possesses an Indian population, and yet the last remnants of its aboriginal red men are to be found isolated on a few hundred acres of land in Warren county, near the headwaters of the Allegheny river. It is true, that less than half a hundred Complanters, descendants of the great chieftain and friend of the white man, Chief Complanter, are now residing within the limits of the land presented to their forebears by the commonwealth. Probably five hundred others, however, have some claim to this land and would perhaps still be occupying it had greater opportunities for self improvement been available. The tiny settlement has a church and a school, and this is about all that the commonwealth has ever done to improve the lot of those who were once the first Pennsylvanians.

Col. Roosevelt In War Games

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, one of the army's reserve officers appointed as liaison observers for Lt. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, commanding huge First Army maneuvers in northern New York State, took time out from his observation duties to smile for photographer.

The tract occupied by the Complanters is almost inaccessible in terms of modern transportation. In fact, it is difficult to reach it without crossing into New York, and even then one must traverse several miles of supremely poor dirt road in order to visit the Pennsylvania red men. It is little wonder that few inhabitants of the state are aware either of the existence of the Complanters or know of their whereabouts.

In the frequent references made to the Complanters, the tract in Warren county is often referred to as a "reservation." This has led some to think of the area as a part of the federal Indian reservation system or a portion of the better known Seneca tract in southern New York, just across the state line near Salamanca. As a matter of fact, the Complanters occupy their land by virtue of special action taken by the General assembly of Pennsylvania in 1791. At this time, in recognition of his great services to the cause of peace between white and red men, the famous Seneca, Complanter, was granted a large tract of land in this, then undeveloped, frontier area. A little later, in order to protect the Indian owners, legislation was passed prohibiting the disposal of any portion of the property outside the Complanter heirs. Years later, shortly after 1860, showing that the memory of Complanter and his services had not yet died, the commonwealth erected on the tract in the cemetery which had become the last resting place of Complanter and many other of his chieftains, a handsome Complanter monument.

As the years passed, however, the commonwealth lost interest in the future of its friends. As facilities for transportation improved, Complanter's lands were passed by and the river became almost the sole means of contact with the neighboring white settlements. In contrast, the Seneca lands in New York, a few miles across the border, were bisected with modern highways, and at least one important city was built upon Seneca property providing opportunities for a decent livelihood, which were increasingly denied their Pennsylvania brethren. Today, some of the most influential Complanters reside in New York where they are substantial and influential citizens. They still possess, however, a remarkable sentimental attachment to their Pennsylvania homelands. Despite years of neglect of their welfare, they still consider themselves as Pennsylvanians and offer return for at least a short residence on the old Complanter lands.

McKenney On Bridge

SUIT BID, END PLAY, AVERT DISASTER IN DIFFICULT HAND

This is the last of a series of six articles presenting hands played by some of Canada's outstanding stars

BY WM. E. MCKENNEY America's Card Authority No. 1 Canadian series would be complete without a hand from John W. Jacobson of Toronto, who has served as co-champion of the Canadian-American Tournament executive committee since its origin in 1936. Jacobson was undoubtedly one of the finest of auction bridge players due to his great ability in the play of the hand, which you can judge by the way he handled today's hand in the Canadian-American Tournament.

The hand was played by many at three no trump, which was killed by the diamond opening. Jacobson (South) had a diamond opening against his heart contract and won with the ace. He immediately played a club, East won and returned a diamond, dummy winning with the king. Another club was returned, West won with the ace and led back a diamond, which John ruffed.

Because of his double, Mr. Jacobson decided to play West for the queen of hearts. He led the ten-spot, West played low and the ten held the trick. The king of hearts was cashed and the hand was out.

The queen of clubs was played, the small spade being discarded, then the queen, ace and king of spades. West was forced to ruff the third spade, but then had to lead away from his queen-nine of hearts into Mr. Jacobson's ace-king. Thus, with five hearts to the queen-nine, West made only one trump trick.

Yes, these Canadians can play their cards!

West opened the suit of hearts by the rule of eleven. I knew there were five cards higher than the six-spot outside of West's hand. As I held four of them East held only one. If this one were the

Ann Jackson Becomes the Bride of Charles Clark Blackman in Trinity Memorial Church

Miss Ann Jackson, 41½ Market street, daughter of Miss John W. A. Luce and Allan C. Jackson, and Charles Clark Blackman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney D. Blackman, 18 Jackson avenue, were married in Trinity Memorial Episcopal church at four o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Best men of white flannel suits and white larkspur ties and white larkspur decorated the altar and candleabra were filled with tall white candles. White gladioli were tied with white ribbon to mark the family pews.

In addition to the traditional Wagner and Mendelssohn wedding marches, Mrs. Gerbard Johnson played the following selections for a brief organ recital: "Trumpets" by Schumann, "Ave Maria" by Boclini, "Salut D'Amour" by Elgar, "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden" by Vulpus. During the ceremony, she played softly "O Perfect Love" by Barnby.

The bride's long frock of white silk faille was fashioned with full skirt, shirred bodice and short puffed sleeves. Lace edged the neckline, the sleeves and the shirring on the bodice and a lace cap held in place her long net veil. Roses, baby's breath and forget-me-nots in pastels formed her colonial bouquet. She was escorted and given in marriage by her father, Mr. Jackson.

Her single attendant was her sister, Miss Barbara Jackson, in a bouffant frock of white silk faille and with a coronet of fresh flowers in her hair. Her colonial bouquet was similar to her sister's.

Mrs. Luce wore grey with orchids and Mrs. S. D. Blackman was attired in black, with a gardenia corsage.

Sidney W. Blackman was his brother's best man and ushers were Harry Schmidt, Jr., Harry Kopf, Jr., and Robert Davidson, of Warren, with Richard Brown, of Mamaroneck, N. Y.

Mrs. Helen Jackson Dravo, aunt of the bride, gave the reception, which was held at the Woman's Club. Immediately following the ceremony, white appointments for the bride's table centered about white gladioli and white larkspur, artistically arranged.

Pleasing music during the reception was provided by a trio composed of Helen Eckardt, Olson, Ruit Eckardt and Joan Jacobson.

Included in the guest list were the following from out of town: Mrs. L. T. Chapman and Miss Jean Chapman, of Remond, N. Y.; Miss Patty Coll, Ithaca, N. Y.; Miss Kay Willson, Sharon, N. Y.; Mrs. Earl Fenderson, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Willis Houghtling, Buffalo, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Brockway, Cleveland, O.; Frederick Carlson, Youngsville.

William Jackson and Miss Mary Jackson, Jamestown, N. Y.; Miss Robin Redick, Chevy Chase, Md.; Miss Nancy Land, Longwood, La.; Miss Mary Jo Walton, and William Schildecker, of Pittsburgh.

Later in the day the couple left for a Canadian wedding trip, the bride wearing a brown bengaline ensemble and brown accessories.

They expect to return to Warren until September 15, when they will be at home at 522 State street, Ithaca, N. Y.

After attending the National Cathedral School in Washington, D. C., Miss Jackson went to Ward, Belmont School, Nashville, Tenn., and the Eastern School for Physicians' Aides in New York City.

Mr. Blackman was graduated by the Haverford School, Haverford, and is a senior at Cornell University.

A great many parties have been given to honor the couple, those who have entertained for them including Mrs. Floyd Schuler and Mrs. Alden MacDonald; Mrs. H. W. Jane MacDonald And Myron E. Check Will Be Wed. Sept. 12th

The approaching wedding day of two well known young people of the community was made known to about 30 friends on Sunday at a beautifully appointed tea given at the Philomel Club by Miss Sally MacDonald, of Buffalo, N. Y., and Warren.

Miss Jane MacDonald, sister of the hostess, has chosen September 12 for her marriage to Myron E. Check, the news having been revealed in notes passed by the ex-ecutive secretary of the American Bridge League, writes of the mistakes and dumb plays that the big name stars of bridge have made. Amateurs won't mind their own blunders so much when they realize the experts sometimes out-expert themselves, says McKenney.

Mixed summer flowers centered the tea table, which was presided over by Mrs. Bertha Lyons, cousin of the bride-elect, and Miss Sally MacDonald.

Out of town guests were Miss Margaret Maurer, Buffalo, N. Y.; Mrs. J. G. Whitmore, Miss Genevieve, Miss Clyde Jack and Miss Virginia Kelly, Ridgway; Mrs. Charles Stadler, Erie, Mrs. Donald Agnew, Youngsville.

Family Reunited After 46 Years

Several most enjoyable family gatherings have been held within the past few days to honor Donald MacCallum, of New York City, who has been here to visit several members of his family after a period of 25 years in which they were unaware of his whereabouts.

Mrs. Thomas Watt, 209 North South street, his sister, entertained with a family party last Thursday evening. Others present included three brothers, John MacCallum, Robert and David Morris, and the David Morris family, of Pittsburgh; a sister, Mrs. Margaret Brewster, of Medina, N. Y., and her daughter, Mrs. Raymond Yeagle, R. D. 1, Warren.

This was the first time the entire family had been united in 46 years and the occasion proved a very joyful one.

The following evening, Friday, Mrs. Yeagle entertained at her home with a farewell honoring Mr. MacCallum, who has returned to his New York home.

Retired Minister And Wife Observe 50th Anniversary

Twenty-three children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren gathered at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. G. S. W. Phillips, 15 North Carver street, on Sunday to celebrate the couple's golden wedding anniversary.

Mr. Phillips served the Methodist church as minister for approximately 35 years, preaching in various churches in northwestern Pennsylvania and Ohio before coming to Warren to live. He is retired now, but attends Grace Methodist church, where Mrs. Phillips is active in Sunday school work and women's group projects.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips were married in Meadville, where they both attended Allegheny College. Later, they went to Madison, N. J., where Mr. Phillips was graduated from Drew Theological Seminary.

Members of the family present for the celebration yesterday included the Rev. and Mrs. Frances Le Croux and children, of Taunton, Minn. and Mrs. Albert Payne and daughter, Betty Jean, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Payne, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Dean Gettig, of Marienville; Miss Marie Payne, of Oil City; Miss Jean Phillips, Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Phillips and son, of Arlington, Va.

The day's celebration was climaxed with a dinner at the Phillips home, served at six o'clock.

Silver Anniversary Party In Kane Home

A pleasant party was held Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Streich, Janeway street, Kane, to mark their silver wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Streich is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Fiero, Sill street, this city, and Mr. Streich is the son of Jacob Streich, of Warren.

Between 30 and 35 relatives and friends were entertained at the party for which two daughters of the couple were hostesses: Mrs. Genevieve Caldwell, of Warren, and Mrs. Joyce Federoski, of Ridgway.

An attractively appointed buffet luncheon was served and the honored guests were presented with a purse of silver in remembrance of the anniversary.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Check, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Randinelli, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Zock, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Fiero and Lee Fiero, Warren; Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fiero, Bradford; Mr. and Mrs. Warden Burns, Jamestown, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Carlson, Ludlow.

North Warren Girls Given Dinner Party

Mrs. George Cowden, of North Warren, entertained recently with a lovely dinner party at Levan's Team Room in Jamestown, N. Y., in honor of the Misses Florence McFayden, Florine Pierce and Margaret Sluiter, all brides of the near future.

Each bride-to-be found at her place a beautiful corsage of gardenias, a gift of the hostess.

McKenney On Bridge

SUIT BID, END PLAY AVERT DISASTER IN DIFFICULT HAND

This is the last of a series of six articles presenting hands played by some of Canada's outstanding stars.

BY WM. E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority

No Canadian series would be complete without a hand from John W. Jacobson of Toronto, who has served as co-chairman of the Canadian-American Tournament executive committee since its origin in 1936. Jacobson was undoubtedly one of the finest of auction bridge players due to his great ability in the play of the hand, which you can judge by the way he handled today's hand in the Canadian-American Tournament.

The hand was played by many at three no trump, which was killed by the diamond opening.
Jacobson (South) had a diamond opening against his heart contract and won with the ace. He immediately played a club. East won and returned a diamond, dummy winning with the king. Another club was returned. West won with the ace and led back a diamond, which John ruffed.

Because of his double, Mr. Jacobson decided to play West for the queen of hearts. He led the ten-spot. West played low and the ten held the trick. The king of hearts was cashed and the bad news was out.

The queen of clubs was played,
the small spade being discarded, then the queen, ace and king of spades. West was forced to ruff the third spade, but then had to lead away from his queen-nine of hearts into Mr. Jacobson's ace-jack. Thus, with five hearts to the queen-nine, West made only one trump trick.

Yes, these Canadians can play their cards!

What bridge needs most of all is an infallible system for guessing right. This week I am going to tell you some stories about players who guessed wrong. The first is about myself, on a hand played in the Mississippi Valley Tournament at St. Louis.

West opened the six of hearts.
By the rule of eleven, I knew there were five cards higher than the six-spot outside of West's hand.
As I held four of them East held only one. If this one were the

Ann Jackson Becomes the Bride of Charles Clark Blackman in Trinity Memorial Church

Miss Ann Jackson, 415 Market street, daughter of Mrs. John W.
A. Luce and Allan C. Jackson, and Charles Clark Blackman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney D. Blackman, 18 Jackson avenue, were married in Trinity Memorial Episcopal church at four o'clock Saturday afternoon.
Rev. E. P. Wroth, rector, performed the ceremony.

Baskets of white Easter lilies and white larkspur decorated the altar and candelabra were filled with tall white candles. White gladioli were tied with white ribbons to mark the family pews.

In addition to the traditional Wagner and Mendelssohn wedding marches, Mrs. Gerbard Jacobsen played the following selections for a brief organ recital: "Traume-rei" by Schumann, "Ave Maria" by Beethoven, "Salut D'Amour" by Elgar, "The Voice That Breathed Over Eden" by Vulpis, During the ceremony she played softly "O Perfect Love" by Barnby.

The bride's long frock of white silk faille was fashioned with full skirt, shirred bodice and short puffed sleeves. Lace edged the neck, the sleeves and the shorter front hemline, and a lace cap held in place her long net veil. Roses, baby's breath and forget-me-nots in pastels formed her colonial bou-quet. She was escorted and given in marriage by her father, Mr.
Jackson.

Her single attendant was her sister, Miss Barbara Jackson, in a bouffant frock of white silk faille and with a coronet of fresh flowers in her hair. Her colonial bou-quet was similar to her sister's.

Mrs. Luce wore grey with orchids and Mrs. S. D. Blackman was attired in black, with a gardenia corsage.

Sidney W. Blackman was his brother's best man and ushers were Harry Schmidt, Jr., Harry Kopf, Jr., and Robert Davidson, of Warren; with Richard Brown, of Mamaroneck, N. Y.

Mrs. Helen Jackson Dravo, aunt of the bride, gave the reception which was held at the Woman's Club immediately following the ceremony. White appointments for the bride's table centered about white gladioli and white larkspur, artistically arranged.

Pleasing music during the reception was provided by a trio composed of Helen Eckardt Olson, Ruht Eckardt and Joan Jacobson.

Included in the guest list were the following from out of town:
Mrs. L. T. Chapman and Miss Jean
Chapman, of Tenafly, N. J.; Miss Patty Colt, Ithaca, N. Y.; Miss
Kay Willson, Sharon, N. Y.; Mrs.
Earl Fenderson, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Willis Houghtling, Buffalo, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs.
G. G. Brockway, Cleveland, O.; Frederick Carlson, Youngsville;
William Jackson and Miss Mary
Jackson, Jamestown, N. Y.; Miss
Robin Redick, Chevy Chase, Md.; Miss Nancy Landon, Lyndon Landon, Miss Mary Jo Walton and William Schildecker, of Pittsburgh.

Later in the day the couple left for a Canadian wedding trip, the bride wearing a brown bengaline ensemble and brown accessories.
They expect to return to Warren until September 15, when they will be at home at 522 State street, Ithaca, N. Y.

After leaving the National Catholic School in Washington, D. C., Miss Jackson went to Ward-Belmont School, Nashville, Tenn., and the Eastern School for Physicians' Aides in New York City.

Mr. Blackman was graduated by the Haverford School, Haverford, and is a senior at Cornell University.

A great many parties have been given to honor the couple, those who have entertained for them including Mrs. Floy Schuler and

Silver Anniversary Party In Kane Home

A pleasant party was held Saturday evening at the home of Mr.
and Mrs. Harry Streich, Janeway street, Kane, to mark their silver wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Streich is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Fiero, Sill street, this city, and Mr. Streich is the son of Jacob Streich, of Warren.

Between 30 and 35 relatives and friends were entertained at the party for which two daughters of the couple were hostesses: Mrs.
Genevieve Caldwell, of Warren, and Mrs. Joyce Federoski, of Ridgway.

An attractively appointed buffet luncheon was served and the honored guests were presented with a purse of silver in remembrance of the anniversary.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Check, Mr. and Mrs.
D. J. Randinelli, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Zock, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Fiero and Lee Fiero, Warren; Mr.
and Mrs. Calvin Fiero, Bradford;

Morning Ceremony At Holy Redeemer Unites Margaret P. Hyatt-W. E. Furey, Jr.

At ten o'clock Saturday morning in the Holy Redeemer church, Long Island, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Zuffa, Jr., Bayville, Long Island;
Buffalo, N. Y., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Hyatt, 108 Terrace street, Warren, and William Edward Furey, Jr., of Buffalo, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Furey, Sr., of Elmhurst, Long Island.

The altar was banked with white gladioli and white silk ribbons marked the family pews. Mrs.
Marie Clark Dillon, organist, played the traditional wedding marches and accompaniments for Mrs.
John Retzer, who sang "Ave Maria" by Rosewig, "Because" and "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother-er".

The bride, escorted and given in marriage by her father, was attractively gowned in white dotted swiss, on princess lines and with a train. Her illusion veil was waist-length and in halo effect. She carried a white prayer book and gar-denias, with white swansonia caught in the shower of white ribbons.

Miss Bertha Hyatt, as her sister's maid of honor, wore hyacinth blue net over taffeta, with a matching net cap, and her shower effect bouquet was of Johanna Hill roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Fredericka Tattersall, of Buffalo, wore pastel peach net over taffeta and a matching net cap. Her bouquet, also in shower effect, was of Talisman roses.

Mrs. Hyatt wore a black and law, Ushers were Joseph Zuffa, Jr., of Long Island, another brother-in-law of Mr. Furey, and Emerson Hyatt, Jr., of Warren, brother of the bride.

Guests and members of the family, totaling 30, were asked to the breakfast which followed at the Philomel Club. On the bride's table, white candles flanked the wedding cake, and at other tables were bouquets of garden flowers. Vases of gladioli were placed artistically about the clubrooms, where friends and relatives were received from two until four o'clock.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs.

Jane MacDonald And Myron E. Check Will Be Wed Sept. 12th

The approaching wedding day of two well known young people of the community was made known to about 30 friends on Sunday at a beautifully appointed tea given at the Philomel Club by Miss Sally MacDonald, of Buffalo, N. Y., and Warren.

Miss Jane MacDonald, sister of the hostess, has chosen September 12 for her marriage to Myron Edward Check, the news having been revealed in notes passed by Cupid in the person of little David Mere-nick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Merenick and nephew of Mr.
Check.

Mixed summer flowers centered the tea table, which was presided over by Mrs. Bertha Lyons, cousin of the bride-elect, and Miss Sally MacDonald.

Out of town guests were Miss Margaret Maurer, Buffalo, N. Y.; Mrs. J. G. Whitmore, Mrs. Genevieve Parsons, Mrs. Clyde Jack and Miss Virginia Kelly, Ridgway; Mrs.
Charles Stadler, Erie; Mrs. Donald Agnew, Youngsville.

Family Reunited After 46 Years

Several most enjoyable family gatherings have been held within the past few days to honor Donald MacCallum, of New York City, who has been here to visit several members of his family after a period of 25 years in which they were unaware of his whereabouts.

Mrs. Thomas Watt, 209 North South street, his sister, entertained with a family party last Thursday evening. Others present included three brothers, John Mac-Callum, Robert and David Morris, and the David Morris family, of Pittsburgh; a sister, Mrs. Margaret Brewster, of Medina, N. Y., and her daughter, Mrs. Raymond Yae-gle, R. D. 1, Warren.

This was the first time the entire family had been united in 46 years and the occasion proved a very joyful one.

The following evening, Friday,
Mrs. Yaele entertained at her home with a farewell honoring Mr. MacCallum, who has returned to his New York home.

Saturday Bride Is Honored By Friends

Miss Elsie Ekdahl, who is to become the bride of Scott Stuart, Jr., on Saturday of this week, was feted at a party given Friday evening by the Misses Mildred Engstrom and Myrtle Johnson.

The party was given at the home of Miss Johnson and the evening was spent with games, first prizes going to Miss Ekdahl and Mrs.
Monroe Engstrom; consolation, to Mrs. Calvin Gage.

Lunch was served by the hostess and the honored guest received many lovely gifts.

Guests from out of town were Mrs. Monroe Passenger, of Russell, and Miss Eleanor Larson, of Sherman, N. Y.

Evening Party For Kenneth O. Merritt

Mrs. J. N. Grady and son, Raymond Grady, entertained at their home, Hazel street, on Saturday evening in honor of Kenneth O.
Merritt, who recently took his bar examinations in Philadelphia and returned to Warren to make his home.

Music and games occupied the evening and, to conclude, refreshments were served at a table appointed in yellow and white.

As a complete surprise to the honored guest, Clifford Johnson presented him with a gift from the group and he was called upon for a response.

Miss Ruth Becker, of Corry, was an out of town guest for the function.

Family Reunions

ANDERSON AND DAHL FAMILY GATHERING

The annual reunion of the Anderson and Dahl families was held at Brook Crest Park near Youngs-ville on Sunday, August 11, with about 100 members present. At one o'clock dinner was served under the trees, followed by a business meeting.

It was decided to meet at the same place next year.
The remainder of the day was spent in playing games, with swimming and following the trails in the park. In the evening supper was served before all departed for home.

Retired Minister And Wife Observe 50th Anniversary

Twenty-three children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren gathered at the home of the Rev.
and Mrs. G. S. W. Phillips, 15 North Carver street, on Sunday to celebrate the couple's golden wedding anniversary.

Mr. Phillips served the Methodist church as minister for approximately 35 years, preaching in various churches in northwestern Pennsylvania and Ohio before coming to Warren to live. He is retired now, but attends Grace Methodist church, where Mrs. Phillips is active in Sunday school work and women's group projects.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips were married in Meadville, where they both attended Allegheny College. Later, they went to Madison, N. J., where Mr. Phillips was graduated from Drew Theological Seminary.

Members of the family present for the celebration yesterday included the Rev. and Mrs. Frances Le Croix and children, of Tarentum;
Mr. and Mrs. Albert Payne and daughter, Betty Jean, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Payne, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Dean Gettig, of Marienville;
Miss Marien Payne, of Oil City;
Miss Jean Phillips, Washington,
D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Phillips and son, of Arlington, Va.

The day's celebration was climaxed with a dinner at the Phillips home, served at six o'clock.

North Warren Girls Given Dinner Party

Mrs. George Cowden, of North Warren, entertained recently with a lovely dinner party at Levan's Team Room in Jamestown, N. Y., in honor of the Misses Florence Mc-Fayden, Florine Pierce and Margaret Shuyter, all brides of the near future.

Each bride-to-be found at her place a beautiful corsage of gar-denias, a gift of the hostess.

Following the dinner, the honored guests were presented with lovely gifts from the Misses Elizabeth Carpenter, Dorothy Hood, Helen Fults, Virginia Schuler, Jane
Ward, Helen Huck, Harriette
Thayer, Iva Lauffer, Constance Day, Jane Myers, June Landers, Mrs. Raymond Leebur, Mrs. Richard Smith and the hostess.

"string bean" look about it. Notice the horizontal tucks and the high pockets.

LAWSON LITTLE CARDS 71 OVER WARREN COURSE

Straying above par figures only once during the 18 holes, Lawson Little, National Open golf champion, on Saturday carded a 71 over the Conewango Valley Country Club course before a fair-sized gallery.

Little, paired with H. D. Hubbs, defeated Harold Smith, local professional, and "Chuck" Eberhardt, nationally known amateur and a former resident of this city, 2 up and 1 to play.

Eberhardt and Smith both took three putts on the first green, going one down to Little's par four. On the sixth, Little collected his first birdie, coming a five-footer for a three and when Eberhardt and Smith again three-putted on the 7th, the champion and his partner went three ahead as each went down in regulation figures.

Smith ran down a short putt for a birdie four on the long 8th after pitching beautifully from the foot of the hill and then rammed home a 25-foot putt for an eagle three on the ninth to close the gap.

The first three holes of the second round were tied with pars and Little and Hubbs went two up on the 13th when the titlist's par four was good enough, Smith failed to get home in two shots and Eberhardt needed three putts. Little got into trouble on the 16th, trapping his iron shot off the tee and three-putting for a five, Eberhardt stepping into the breach with a par three.

Little ended the match on the 17th with a par five as all three of his companions needed six. On the 18th both Little and Hubbs birdied 4's against Smith and Eberhardt's pars.

Eberhardt carded 76, Smith 79 and Hubbs 83.

Between rounds Little gave a group golf lesson on the fundamentals of the stance, grip and swing.

With Creal on deck after an absence of a couple of years, we checked up on the local course record which has long been in dispute. It seems that 69, shot by Creal on July 4, 1938, is the lowest card turned in playing the ball as it lay. Timmy registered a 68 one afternoon, but was playing winter rules and this score therefore can't be considered official. When Little went out in 34 yesterday it appeared that the mark would be lowered, but a pushed iron shot on three-par No. 7 spoiled his chance. The titlist found himself in a difficult lie in the sand and tried to bounce it out against the bank, the ball just making the green. Going too hard after his par, Little pushed his first putt past the can and missed coming back for his only three-putt green of the day and his sole major error.

Local baseball fans will be interested in following the fortunes of Natrona's semi-pro champions who left last week for Wichita where they will represent Pennsylvania in the playoffs conducted by the National Semi-Pro Baseball Congress. The team was far short of its $1,500 goal, the drive for funds netting only $750, but through the cooperation of Father Anthony Korcek, a former Natrona boy, the lads will make out all right. So that the players won't have to pay out money for hotel accommodations, Father Korcek has arranged for them to sleep on cots in his parish school and will arrange to furnish them with meals at low cost. Natrona borrowed Jack Fullerton from Brackenridge and "Beppo" Stanczak from the Vandergrift Redbirds for the trip.

SPORT SCATTERINGS

Our vacation turned into a bit of busman's holiday on Saturday as we followed the exhibition match at the Conewango Valley Country Club, but any golf addict was well rewarded by the demonstration presented by Open Champion Lawson Little. The group lesson was a generous one, and the gallery picked up plenty of valuable hints from Little's concise talk on the proper grip, stance and swing for every shot from the No. 8 iron up to the driver. The owner of golf's most coveted title was no less entertaining in actual play and his one-under-par 71 contained shots which brought "oohs" and "ahs" from the crowd. Little told your agent following the match that Conewango Valley's layout is one of the finest tests of any nine-hole course he has played during the tour and that any member who is consistently in the low 80's on the local links would very probably find himself well down in the 70's on many other courses. "There's a lot more opportunity to get in deep trouble here than on the average nine," he said, "and I noticed a couple of spots where straying from the fairway means plenty of extra strokes before you reach the green. Your No. 3, by the way, is about as sweet a one-shooter as I have ever seen."

Little stated before the match that golfers from other towns in this section where he has played in exhibition matches during the past two or three years had told him about "dat old debbil No. 8 at Warren" and he was glad of the opportunity to work out on it. Local linksmen were also glad to watch him try to make the hilltop green in two shots. On his first round, the Open champion drove about 280 yards up the right side of the fairway and pressed his second, the ball skidding to the bottom of the hill. He then teed up the ball and smacked it to the carpet. On the second nine, Little drove 290 yards up the left side of the fairway and tried to get home with a driver out of a close lie. Again the ball skidded to the foot of the hill, but on the suggestion of Timmy Creal Little dropped another ball and used a brassie, the pellet coming to rest about 12 feet from the cup, proving that it can be done.

Local baseball fans will be interested in following the fortunes of Natrona's semi-pro champions who left last week for Wichita where they will represent Pennsylvania in the playoffs conducted by the National Semi-Pro Baseball Congress. TRIO OF WINS FOR FORGE NINE OVER WEEKEND

The weekend was a profitable one for the National Forge tossers who took three out of three, twice defeating the strong-armed Olean-Allegany Nationals at the Irvine town yesterday and dopping Chautauqua at the Assembly Grounds on Saturday.

"Diz" Hines made his first start since being injured and lasted three innings in the opener yesterday, Caffrey relieving him and getting credit for a 7-6 victory in 12 torrid innings. "Red" Hajnik singled Emmy Morrison home with the winning run in the 12th.

Gagliardi's triple was the only extra-base blow of the first game, but in the second the boys went to town, scoring 11 runs on 12 hits as Hank Wise pitched four-hit ball in six frames to give the Forge an 11-1 decision. The game was called at the end of the sixth because of the Sunday curfew law.

"Lefty" Kulick allowed a half dozen bingles as the Irvine outfit downed Chautauqua, 9 to 2, his mates pounding Ingerson for 16 safe blows which included Caffrey's double and home run and a triple by Joe Nagle. Kulick fanned ten and issued only one free ticket.

The next game for the Forge is scheduled for Wednesday when they play Wellsville at the Stockton Fair. On Friday the Forgers play at Wilder Field under the lights, facing the nationally popular House of David club. The game will begin at 8:30 o'clock.

Tentative Willkie Itinerary

(From Page One) Willkie, his wife and son, Philip, will stay here through Wednesday, and then may go to Maine or Minnesota, after making a brief stop in New York. The Maine election is September 9, but Willkie said he would make only short, informal talks if he visited the state this month.

From Coffeyville, he will likely go to the west coast, and then back into his mid-west and the east for the latter part of the campaign. Willkie and Martin looked over a big stack of telegrams which the nominee said applauded his Elwood acceptance address. There was a "surprisingly great reaction," he said.

New York, Aug. 19.—(P)—Wendell L. Willkie's suggestion that President Roosevelt meet him in debate was described by Democratic National Chairman Edward J. Flynn today as a "cheap publicity stunt."

Flynn, in his first press conference since he succeeded James A. Farley as chairman, said the Willkie challenge was issued "for pure political effect."

Asked if he thought it would be accepted, Flynn said, "Sure." Asserting he did not believe Willkie had created any new issues in his acceptance speech Saturday, Flynn predicted an "overwhelming victory" for the Roosevelt-Wallace ticket this fall.

Charles Michelson, publicity director for the national committee, suggested to Flynn that he point out the president had said he would have no time for purely political debates during the campaign and Flynn nodded assent.

Hardened by Two Weeks' Warmup Guardsmen Become Part of "Blue" Army

commander of the First Army. joined with the Pennsylvanians in a memorial to World War dead. The governor said since he reviewed the 28th last in the 1939 maneuvers at Manassas, Va., "the whole world has been convulsed in fear of those who do not have democracy in their hearts."

The governor added he took "pardonable pride" in being able to present to the president of the United States, the 28th Division, "the finest body of volunteer soldiers in the broad domain of America."

The president did not speak. General Drum spoke briefly and praised the division for its World War record.

Major General Edward Martin, commander of the 28th, expressed hope that from 2874 officers and men who lie in France the living members of the division would give the inspiration "to carry on," rived by a two weeks' warmup during which they have engaged in every kind of "war" from platoon against platoon to division against division, the Pennsylvania guardsmen today became a part of the "Blue" army commanded by General Drum.

BY JOHN H. WIGGINS

Ogdenburg, N. Y., Aug. 19.—(P)—The largest peacetime "war" in the nation's history opened in northern New York today with defending American "Blue" and foreign "Black" invaders fighting with fireless arms, blasting bombs, pseudo tanks and blank ammunition for the gateway to vital industrial centers.

By 5 a. m., zero hour many of the 90,000 troops through stealthy night maneuvers were arrayed along a 35-mile front stretching southward from the St. Lawrence and sparring for an opening blow.

Their return to action came after an anxious 24 hours during President Roosevelt's visit to the war maneuver area—a visit marked by the president's historic, defense-linking conference with Canadian Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King.

Forces of the "Blues" and scouting forces of the "Blacks" penetrated cautiously into a tangle of no-man's land for information.

For four days and nights, the conflict will be imaginary.

Experts To Study Problems

A joint board of defense will meet soon, in accordance with an understanding reached by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada, for "immediate studies relating to sea, land and air problems, including personnel and material."

The decision to set up a permanent board, made up primarily of four or five military experts from each country, was announced yesterday in a joint statement at Ogdenburg, N. Y.

There, on the international border, the president and the prime minister had met to discuss "mutual problems of defense" and the safety of their nations. There they made an agreement unique in the annals of American foreign policy.

In effect, it made neutral United States, for purposes of North American defense, an ally of a nation actively at war with Germany and Italy.

If the agreement envisions it, totalitarian powers attempt to bring their conflict to the dominion, it was nothing more than military men had expected. They have long contended that for the United States to be safe, it must see to it that Canada also is safe.

Nor did the agreement present administration views in an entirely new light.

Two years ago, at the dedication of an international bridge at Kingston, Ont., President Roosevelt declared that the United States would not stand idly by if Canada were threatened by forces from overseas and at Ogdenburg he told reporters those words remained good.

He went to the upstate New York city to review troops participating in the nation's biggest mock war in peace time and to talk with Mackenzie King.

London, Aug. 19.—(P)—Morning newspapers prominently displayed today news of the decision to establish a joint American-Canadian defense board and the Times editorially termed the action "of far-reaching import."

It is "not surprising," the Times said at the same time, that the United States is anxious to establish naval and air bases to protect the Panama Canal.

During the World war, about 4,058,000 individuals served in the American forces.

The Ten Commandments are known also as the Decalogue.

Claude Wickard New Secretary of Agriculture

(From Page One) Mr. Roosevelt also sent to the senate the nomination of Paul H. Appleby of Maryland, to succeed Wickard as undersecretary. Appleby has served as an assistant to Wallace since he entered the cabinet in 1933.

Wallace's resignation, effective September 5, was announced in exchange of letters released today at Hyde Park, N. Y. On that date Wallace said, he would probably begin active campaigning as Mr. Roosevelt's 1940 running mate.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, said Wickard was promoted because of President Roosevelt's desire to have the agriculture department directed by someone from within its own organization.

Early, White House secretary, told reporters he had forwarded to President Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N. Y., about 200 telegrams and letters which he said largely congratulated the president on Willkie's acceptance speech.

The messages, Early said, arrived over the weekend.

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 19.—(P)—President Roosevelt today accepted the resignation of Henry A. Wallace as secretary of agriculture, freeing his vice-presidential running mate to begin active campaigning for the New Deal on Sept. 5.

No evidence of any inclination on the part of the chief executive to accept Wendell L. Willkie's challenge to debate campaign issues has become apparent.

Kingdom Girds For Hour

While British girded for an imminently expected "zero hour" for a Nazi invasion attempt, far-ranging RAF bombers again blasted cities in northern Italy, attacking the big industrial centers of Milan, Turin and Cuneo.

Other RAF squadrons raided western and southern Germany, the Nazi High Command admitted, causing "immaterial damage."

As Germany moved to force her announced "ring of iron" blockade against Britain, an estimated 650 swastika-marked air raiders swarmed across the coast, starting Sunday morning after a full Saturday and continuing into the night.

The Germans reported downing 182 British planes while admitting a loss of 34 planes themselves.

On the African front, the British Mediterranean fleet bombarded Italy's Libyan base at Bardia Saturday.

shrine, "do you want to see Hitler in Independence Hall making fun of the Liberty Bell?"

"No!" He shouted, and the crowd shouted with him.

"Write and telegraph to your senators and representatives," he urged. "Write to your newspaper. Demand the privilege of being called into the service of the nation. Tell them that we want conscription. Tell them that we back up General Pershing."

Bullitt, the first high ranking member of the administration to advocate naval aid, declared that "the destruction of the British navy would be the turning of our Atlantic Maginot Line."

If Great Britain is conquered, Bullitt foresaw that island along with the whole continent of Europe organized into one economic unit directed from Berlin. No country of North or South America, he said, would be able to trade with Europe except on such terms as "might be pleasing to the dictators."

With Bullitt on the platform were two other American envoys to German-conquered European nations, Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, ambassador to the Polish government-in-exile, and John G. Cudahy, who returned recently from his post in Belgium.

LEGION IN FAVOR OF FULL CONSCRIPTION

Reading, Aug. 19.—(P)—The Pennsylvania Department of the American Legion is on record as favoring full conscription of material and manpower for national defense.

Closing their annual state convention Saturday, the former service men adopted resolutions supporting pending draft legislation, outlining united action against saboteurs and "Fifth Columnists," and advocating admission of negroes to the National Guard.

Charles A. Cook, of Pittston, a state police lieutenant, was elected state commander to succeed Edward Stirling.

Republican state headquarters said that Wendell L. Willkie, the presidential nominee, has been invited to speak here in September to open the Pennsylvania campaign, but that his campaign itinerary has not yet been worked out and his acceptance has not been received.

Menu of the Day

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE Peach pie is a grand dessert.

A Peachy Dessert

Dinner For 3 Or 4

Veal Patties Creamed Onions Buttered Peas Bread Red Raspberry Jam Sliced Tomatoes and Cucumbers Peach Pie Delicious Coffee

Veal Patties

1 pound ground veal (economy) 1 teaspoon lemon juice 1/2 teaspoon salt 1/2 teaspoon celery salt 1/2 cup milk nutmeg

Mix veal, juice and seasonings. Add fat and shape the meat into cakes, about two inches wide and 1/3 inch thick. Mix yolks and water. Dip the cakes in the crumbs, egg mixture and again in the crumbs. Brown quickly on both sides in the oil heated in a frying pan. Cover and cook slowly ten minutes.

Peach Pie Delicious

1 baked pie 1/2 teaspoon vanilla 1/2 cup sliced peaches 1/2 cup granulated sugar 1/2 cup apricot jam 1/2 cup milk 1/2 cup raisins 1/2 cup nuts

Mix granulated sugar with flour, salt and yolks. Add milk and cook in a double boiler until creamy—be careful not to over cook. Add vanilla almond extract and peaches and pour into pie shell. Beat the whites until stiff, add confectioner's sugar and beat until creamy. Roughly spread over the peach mixture and bake ten minutes in a slow oven. Cool.

Tentative Willkie Itinerary

(From Page One) Willkie, his wife and son, Philip, will stay here through Wednesday, and then may go to Maine or Minnesota, after making a brief stop in New York. The Maine election is September 9, but Willkie said he would make only short, informal talks if he visited the state this month.

From Coffeyville, he will likely go to the west coast, and then back into the mid-west, and the east for the latter part of the campaign. Willkie and Martin looked over a big stack of telegrams which the nominee said applauded his Elwood acceptance address. There was a "surprisingly great reaction," he said.

New York, Aug. 19.—(P)—Wendell L. Willkie's suggestion that President Roosevelt meet him in debate was described by Democratic National Chairman Edward J. Flynn today as a "cheap publicity stunt."

Flynn, in his first press conference since he succeeded James A. Farley as chairman, said the Willkie challenge was issued "for pure political effect."

Asked if he thought it was issued in a belief that it would be accepted, Flynn said, "Sure." Asserting he did not believe Willkie had created any new issues in his acceptance speech Saturday, Flynn predicted an "overwhelming victory" for the Roosevelt-Wallace ticket this fall.

Hardened by Two Weeks' Warmup Guardsmen Become Part of "Blue" Army

The governor said since he reviewed the 28th last in the 1939 maneuvers at Manassas, Va., "the whole world has been convulsed in fear of those who do not have democracy in their hearts."

The governor added he took "pardonable pride" in being able to present to the president of the United States, the 28th Division, "the finest body of volunteer soldiers in the broad domain of America."

The president did not speak. General Drum spoke briefly and praised the division for its World War record.

Major General Edward Martin, commander of the 28th, expressed hope that from 2874 officers and men who lie in France the living members of the division would derive the inspiration "to carry on."

Hardened by a two weeks' warmup, during which they have engaged in every kind of "war" from platoon against platoon to division against division, the Pennsylvania guardsmen today became a part of the "Blue" army commanded by General Drum.

BY JOHN H. WIGGINS Ogdensburg, N. Y., Aug. 19.—(P)—The largest peace-time "war" in the nation's history opened in northern New York today with defending American "Blue" and foreign "Black" invaders fighting with fireless arms, blasting bombs, pseudo tanks and blank ammunition for the gateway to vital industries.

By 5 a. m., zero hour many of the 90,000 troops through stealthy night maneuvers were arrayed along a 35-mile front stretching southward from the St. Lawrence and sparring for an opening blow. Their return to action came after an anxious 24 hours during President Roosevelt's visit to the war maneuver area—a visit marked by the president's historic, defense-linking conference with Canadian Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King.

Patrols of the "Blues" and scouting forces of the "Blacks" penetrated cautiously into a land-mile stretch of no-man's land for information. For four days and nights, the conflict will be imaginary.

Experts To Study Problems

A joint board of defense will meet soon, in accordance with an understanding reached by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada, for "immediate studies relating to sea, land and air problems, including personnel and material." The decision to set up a permanent board, made up primarily of four or five military experts from each country, was announced yesterday in a joint statement at Ogdensburg, N. Y.

There, on the international border, the president and the prime minister had met to discuss "mutual problems of defense" and the safety of their nations. They there made an agreement unique in the annals of American foreign policy. In effect, it made neutral United States, for purposes of North American defense, an ally of a nation actively at war with Germany and Italy.

If the agreement envisaged American involvement should the totalitarian powers attempt to bring their conflict to the dominion, it was nothing more than military men had expected. They have long contended that for the United States to be safe, it must see to it that Canada also is safe.

Nor did the agreement present administration views in an entirely new light.

Two years ago, at the dedication of an international bridge at Kingston, Ont., President Roosevelt declared that the United States would not stand idly by if Canada were threatened by forces from overseas and at Ogdensburg he told reporters those words remained good.

He went to the upstate New York city to review troops participating in the nation's biggest mock war in peace time and to talk with Mackenzie King.

London, Aug. 19.—(P)—Morning newspapers prominently displayed today news of the decision to establish a joint American-Canadian defense board and the Times editorially termed the action "of far-reaching import."

It is "not surprising," the Times said at the same time, that the United States is anxious to establish naval and air bases to protect the Panama Canal.

During the World war, about 4,058,000 individuals served in the American forces.

The Ten Commandments are known also as the Decalogue.

Claude Wickard New Secretary of Agriculture

(From Page One) Mr. Roosevelt also sent to the senate the nomination of Paul H. Appleby of Maryland, to succeed Wickard as undersecretary. Appleby has served as an assistant to Wallace since he entered the cabinet in 1933.

Wallace's resignation, effective September 5, was announced in exchange of letters released today at Hyde Park, N. Y. On that date Wallace said, he would probably begin active campaigning as Mr. Roosevelt's 1940 running mate.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, said Wickard was promoted because of his long service to the department directed by someone from within its own organization.

Stephen Early, White House secretary, told reporters he had forwarded to President Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N. Y., about 200 telegrams and letters which he said largely congratulated the president on Willkie's acceptance speech.

The messages, Early said, arrived over the weekend.

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 19.—(P)—President Roosevelt today accepted the resignation of Henry A. Wallace as secretary of agriculture, freeing his vice-presidential running mate to begin active campaigning for the New Deal on Sept. 5.

No evidence of any inclination on the part of the chief executive to accept Wendell L. Willkie's challenge to debate campaign issues has become apparent.

While British girded for an imminently expected "zero hour" for a Nazi invasion attempt, far-ranging RAF bombers again blasted cities in northern Italy, attacking the big industrial centers of Milan, Turin and Cuneo.

Other RAF squadrons raided western and southern Germany, the Nazi High Command admitted, causing "immaterial damage."

As Germany moved to forge her announced "ring of iron" blockade about Britain, an estimated 650 swastika-marked air raiders swarmed across the coast, starting Sunday morning after a lull Saturday and continuing into the night.

The Germans, reported downing 182 British planes while admitting a loss of 34 planes themselves.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC ENJOYED AT YOUNGSVILLE

Youngsville, Aug. 17. Members of the United Brethren Sunday schools of Warren and Youngsville held an enjoyable picnic on Island Park Friday afternoon. About one hundred and fifty were in attendance. A sport program occupied the afternoon. Popular features were a junior baseball game, bean bag contest, sack race, wheelbarrow race, ladies' ball throw. The young people were divided into groups for a balloon bursting contest. The groups tried to protect their own balloons and burst with pins the balloons of their opponents. The little people were entertained by a peanut hunt. At six p. m. a bountiful dinner was enjoyed followed by a miscellaneous game between the men of the Warren Sunday school and the men of the Youngsville U. B. Sunday school, with the winners the local group.

HONOR BRIDE TO BE
Miss Neva Bull, whose marriage to Norman Hogenboom, of Clymer, N. Y., for the near future has been announced, was the honor guest at a miscellaneous shower Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Reynolds in Warren. Friends were present from Warren, Youngsville and North Warren. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by her mother, Mrs. R. H. Knapp. The honor guest received many lovely gifts for the new home.

NEW HOUSES
C. C. Johnson is building a group of three houses as an F.H.A. project. Second street is being extended and the new homes will be on the extension.
William Sanberg is building a new residence on West Main street.

WILLKIE DELIVERING ACCEPTANCE SPEECH

Wendell L. Willkie pictured in midst of speech accepting Republican presidential nomination at ceremonies in Elwood, Ind.

RESUME OF ACCEPTANCE SPEECH MADE BY WILLKIE AT ELWOOD

Elwood, Ind., Aug. 19.—(P.P.)—Wendell L. Willkie formally accepted Saturday the Republican presidential nomination by challenging President Roosevelt to a series of campaign debates and calling for widespread reversal of new deal foreign and domestic policies.

In a speech near the "old swimming hole" of his home town, Willkie advocated strong national defense and declared that "some form of selective service is the only Democratic way" to obtain man power for defense.

"I should threaten foreign governments," he said, "only when our country was threatened by them and when I was ready to act, and I should consider our diplomacy as part of the people's business concerning which they were entitled to prompt and frank reports to the limit of practicability."

lessly unprepared—and which it emphatically does not want.

"He has secretly meddled in the affairs of Europe, and he has even unscrupulously encouraged other countries to hope for more help than we are able to give."

Contrasting his own views on international relations, Willkie said:

"I promise, by returning to those same American principles that overcame German autocracy before, both in business and in war, to outdistance Hitler in any contest he chooses in 1940 or after."

"And I promise that when we beat him, we shall beat him on our own terms, in our own American way."

"The Republican nominee declared that the 'promises of the present administration cannot lead you to victory against Hitler, or against anyone else."

Willkie declared that if he were president "I should x x threaten foreign governments only when our country was threatened by them and when I was ready to act."

Then he proposed that in the next two and a half months, he and Mr. Roosevelt appear together in various parts of the country to debate "the fundamental issues of this campaign."

Willkie listed these issues as problems of domestic economy—agriculture, labor, industry and finance—as well as problems of national defense.

"And also I would like to debate," he said, "the question of the assumption by the president, in seeking a third term, of a greater public confidence than was accorded to our presidential giants, Washington, Jefferson, Jackson, Lincoln, Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt, and Woodrow Wilson."

He called for a check on the "concentration of power" in government, but added "I believe that the forces of free enterprise must be regulated. I am opposed to business monopolies. I believe in collective bargaining by representatives of labor's own free choice, without any interference and in full protection of those obvious rights."

"I believe in the maintenance of minimum standard for wages and of maximum standards for hours. I believe that such standards should constantly improve. I believe in the federal regulation of interstate utilities, of securities markets, and of banking. I believe in federal pensions, in adequate old age benefits, and in unemployment allowances."

"I believe that the federal government has a responsibility to equalize the lot of the farmer, with that of the manufacturer. If this cannot be done by parity of prices, other means must be found—with the least possible regimentation of the farmer's affairs. I believe in the encouragement of cooperative buying and selling, and in the full extension of rural electrification."

TRUCKERS PLAN DISCUSSION ON HIGHWAY SAFETY

Carl Elmquist, of this city and chairman of the Warren County Council, Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association, said today the council will hold a meeting at 8 p. m. Tuesday at the Warren Transfer and Storage, 105 Madison avenue, at which time national defense and highway safety will be discussed.

"Trucks play the leading role in a national defense program because of their maneuverability and quicker delivery," Mr. Elmquist said. "Highway transportation has proven many times in emergencies that the industry can go any place that it is needed."

The association offered to President Roosevelt its membership's facilities in the national defense plans, the chairman said.

"Highway safety and the value of having an accident-free record will be another subject. Discussion leader will be W. F. Richardson, P. M. T. A. Regional Manager," Mr. Elmquist said.

British Hurricanes—III Winds to German Bombers

Twice before in English history hurricanes have blown British safety—once wrecking the Spanish armada, once shattering Napoleon's fleet. Now, fighting for her life, her skies "black with enemy planes," Britain relies on modern Hurricanes, like these Hawker Hurricane fighter planes, above, to fling back the vaunted Nazi challenge to her "tiny little island."

Youngsville, Aug. 17. Members of the United Brethren Sunday schools of Warren and Youngsville held an enjoyable picnic on Island Park Friday afternoon. About one hundred and fifty were in attendance. A sport program occupied the afternoon. Popular features were a junior baseball game, bean bag contest, sack race, wheelbarrow race, ladies' ball throw. The young people were divided into groups for a balloon bursting contest. The groups tried to protect their own balloons and burst with pins the balloons of their opponents. The little people were entertained by a peanut hunt. At six p. m. a bountiful dinner was enjoyed followed by a mush-bell game between the men of the Warren Sunday school and the men of the Youngsville U. B. Sunday school, with the winners the local group.

Elwood, Ind., Aug. 19.—(P)—Wendell L. Willkie formally accepted Saturday the Republican presidential nomination by challenging President Roosevelt to a series of campaign debates and calling for widespread reversal of new deal foreign and domestic policies. In a speech near the "old swimming hole" of his home town, Willkie advocated strong national defense and declared that "some form of selective service is the only Democratic way" to obtain man power for defense. "I should threaten foreign governments," he said, "only when our country was threatened by them and when I was ready to act, and I should consider our diplomacy as part of the people's business concerning which they were entitled to prompt and frank reports to the limit of practicability. Of Far-Rockaway, N. Y. is expected home today, Saturday. The Mission Church of the United Brethren church are having an outing and swimming party with a picnic luncheon at Canadota Lake this afternoon. The Truth Seekers Class met Thursday evening with Mrs. Alfred Smith. Mrs. Charles Johnson has returned from a visit of a few days at Chautauqua Assembly. Miss Dorothy Knapp, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Jesse Knapp, formerly of Warren, is a guest this week of Miss Loraine Bogren. The Saron Lutheran Ladies Aid picnicked this week at the Ed Abraham cottage. Rev. Raymond Nelson, assistant dean of the Moody Bible Institute will give a concert at the United Brethren church on Thursday evening of next week, assisted by Mrs. Nelson. John Zelliff, Jr., is visiting at Virginia Beach, Va., this week. Mrs. Floyd Conklin and son, Stewart, and Miss Doris Conklin who accompanied Mr. and Mrs. V. D. Smith to Delaware, Ohio, on the first part of their trip west, returned Tuesday evening to Youngsville, having visited Cleveland, Akron and several other cities on the return trip. A card received from Mr. and Mrs. Smith, who left Youngsville Sunday, came from Joplin, Mo. They reported that they were having a good trip. They then expected to reach their destination of Albuquerque, N. M., on Thursday. An interesting meeting of the U. B. Missionary Society was held Thursday with Mrs. Nina Haight leader.

lessly unprepared—and which it emphatically does not want. "He has secretly meddled in the affairs of Europe, and he has even unscrupulously encouraged other countries to hope for more help than we are able to give." Contrasting his own views on international relations, Willkie said: "I promise, by returning to those same American principles that overcame German autocracy once before, both in business and in war, to outdistance Hitler in any contest he chooses in 1940 or after. "And I promise that when we beat him, we shall beat him on our own terms, in our own American way. "The Republican nominee declared that the "promises of the present administration cannot lead you to victory against Hitler, or against anyone else. Willkie declared that if he were president "I should x x threaten foreign governments only when our country was threatened by them and when I was ready to act." Then he proposed that in the next two and a half months, he and Mr. Roosevelt appear together in various parts of the country to debate "the fundamental issues of this campaign." Willkie listed these issues as problems of domestic economy—agriculture, labor, industry and finance—as well as problems of national defense. "And also I would like to debate," he said, "the question of the assumption by the president, in seeking a third term, of a greater public confidence than was accorded to our presidential giants, Washington, Jefferson, Jackson, Lincoln, Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt, and Woodrow Wilson." He called for a check on the "concentration of power" in government, but added "I believe that the forces of free enterprise must be regulated. I am opposed to business monopolies. I believe in collective bargaining, by representatives of labor's own free choice, without any interference and in full protection of those obvious rights. "I believe in the maintenance of minimum standards for wages and of maximum standards for hours. I believe that such standards should constantly improve. I believe in the federal regulation of interstate utilities, of securities markets, and of banking. I believe in federal pensions, in adequate old age benefits, and in unemployment allowances. "I believe that the federal government has a responsibility to equalize the lot of the farmer, with that of the manufacturer. If this cannot be done by parity of prices, other means must be found—with the least possible regimentation of the farmer's affairs. I believe in the encouragement of cooperative buying and selling, and in the full extension of rural electrification." Willkie asserted that while "the new deal stands for doing what has to be done by spending as much money as possible, I propose to do it by spending as little money as possible." The nominee devoted a large section of his speech to detailed criticism of Roosevelt foreign policy, saying: "He has dabbled in inflammatory statements and manufactured panics. The president's attacks on foreign powers have been useless and dangerous. He has courted a war for which the country is hope-

Carl Elmquist, of this city and chairman of the Warren County Council, Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association, said today the council will hold a meeting at 8 p. m. Tuesday at the Warren Transfer and Storage, 105 Madison avenue, at which time national defense and highway safety will be discussed. "Trucks play the leading role in a national defense program because of their maneuverability and quicker delivery," Mr. Elmquist said. "Highway transportation has proven many times in emergencies that the industry can go any place that it is needed." The association offered to President Roosevelt its membership's facilities in the national defense plans, the chairman said. "Highway safety and the value of having an accident-free record will be another subject. Discussion leader will be W. F. Richardson, F. M. T. A. Regional Manager," Mr. Elmquist said.
